SON'S WIFE SUES T. W. LAWSON

MAKE PEACE NOW, WARNS LODGE

PROMISED HELP FOR CHILDREN, SHE SAYS

Mrs. Arnold Lawson, Whose Husband Is in Army, Declares T. W. Withdrew Support

Thomas W. Lawson was before Judge Brown in the equity motion session of the Superior Court today to show cause why he should not perform a contract to provide for the support of his daughter-in-law, Lucie Mitchell Lawson; and that he be enjoined from interfering with the custody of her two boys.

Arnold Lawson, husband of the plaintiff, is in the military service of the United States, and while he is absent his wife says that Thomas W. Lawson made an agreement to care for her and her four children. The latter was not represented by counsel today, but agreed to allow matters to remain as they now are until pleadings are completed and the case heard upon its merits.

HUSBAND IN ARMY.

Mrs. Lawson says that she was married on July 28, 1906, and has four children—Arnold Jr., Thomas Lawson 2d, Vera and Jean. Her husband entered the army in 1918 and has a commission as first lieutenant. He is now stationed at Camp Johnson, Jacksonville, Florida.

Before entering the service Mrs. Lawson says that her husband had an understanding with his father, whereby he was to furnish Mrs. Lawson and her children with a cottage on the Dreamwold estate at Scituate. It also was understood that Arnold was to make an allotment to his wife of $125 out of his salary, and that Thomas W. Lawson was to pay $200 a year toward her support. The two girls, Vera and Jean, were to be sent to a private school at Thompson, Conn., and their tuition was to be paid by their grandfather.

ASKED TO LEAVE DREAMWOLD.

On October 12 last, Mrs. Lawson says, Thomas W. Lawson requested her to leave the cottage which she was occupying, but that she refused to go. She says that Mr. Lawson agreed that if she would go with the two boys to a boarding house in Boston he would allow her $150 a month, and also pay the schooling of the two girls.

Later Mrs. Lawson complied with the request of the respondent, but after one payment of $150 had been made, she says that Thomas W. Lawson repudiated his agreement and declined to make further payments. As a result, Mrs. Lawson says she has been compelled to give up the custody of her two sons to their grandfather.

Mrs. Lawson declares that she has no means of support, and that there is no good reason for the action of her father-in-law. She regards it as a case of persecution.

Mr. Lawson told Judge Brown that he should not be represented by counsel, but would prepare and conduct his own defence.

INDICTMENT OF HARRIS IS VITIATED

The presence of two policemen in the Middlesex Grand Jury room at East Cambridge while the State witnesses against Samuel C. Harris were being heard, vitiated the indictment which was returned against Harris for receiving a stolen automobile and upon which he was later convicted and sentenced to four years in State prison at hard labor.

This decision was handed down by the full bench of the Supreme Court today in sustaining exceptions taken by Harris' counsel.

Harris is a Boston horse dealer, known from coast to coast and rated at half a million, or more. He was found guilty at East Cambridge last June of receiving an automobile belonging to Pincus Iffer of Providence, knowing the same to have been stolen.

Harris' counsel filed a plea in abatement. Judge Callahan overruled it on the ground that Harris suffered no harm from the presence of the two officers in the grand jury room.

But Judge Pierce, who wrote the Supreme Court opinion, referred to the protection guaranteed by the Bill of Rights and ruled that an examination of witnesses by the grand jury in the presence of others—witnesses, bystanders or judges—subjected the accused to public trial without right to testify in his own behalf or representation by counsel. He added that such procedure destroyed the principle of grand jury secrecy.

1,300 Troops Saved From Wreck

WOUNDED TAKEN FIRST

Eighty Men Bearing Marks of Battle Removed From Northern Pacific on Stretchers

By WILLIAM BASKERVILLE, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Fire Island, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Thirteen hundred American soldiers, eighty of them so badly wounded that they had to be carried on stretchers, had been taken from the stranded Northern Pacific this afternoon and the work of rescue is being rapidly continued despite high wind and rough seas.

More than 900 men had been taken from the ship before noon, leaving fewer than 1,500 on board. The sick and wounded were taken to the naval hospital ship Solace.

The Navy Department took charge of the rescue work today and it went forward with speed and efficiency. Submarine chasers, lifeboats and the breeches buoy were all employed.

The transfer of the litter cases were most hazardous on account of the heavy swell. Sailors carried the sick and wounded men on stretchers on board the small boats which were lashed to the side of the grounded transport.

CHEERS FOR RESCUERS.

The well soldiers were taken over the side of the Northern Pacific on ladders and were carried ashore on the submarine chasers Nos. 291, 292

7,500 MILL OPERATORS IDLE AT LAWRENCE

Lawrence, Jan. 3.—More than 7,500 mill operatives in Lawrence are affected by the temporary suspension of operation, due either to war work readjustment or stock taking in three local big textile plants. It is expected that they will be closed until Monday. The mills and the number of operatives affected are: Wood, 5,000; Uswico, 2,000; Plymouth, 500. The Wood mill of the American Woolen Company shut down owing to the readjustment of war work. The other two plants are taking stock.

FAVORS COMMISSION TO SETTLE WAR CONTRACTS

Washington, Jan. 3.—Senator Hitchcock's bill to take the adjustment of informal war contracts from the Secretary of War and give it to a commission of three appointed by the President, with the consent of the Senate, was favorably reported to the Senate this afternoon by the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

Woodward Poem Aims to Kill Influenza, Possibly

Health Commissioner William C. Woodward has a new plan to defeat the influenza germ. It consists of wearing down the germ through the medium of his own rythmic pen. Here is the commissioner's first shot at the public enemy:

Mary had a little cold
That settled in her head,
And everywhere that Mary went
That cold was sure to spread.

It followed her to school one day
(There wasn't any rules
It made the children cough and sneeze
To have that cold in school.

The teacher tried to drive it out;
She tried hard, but—alas-boo!
It didn't do a bit of good,
For teacher caught it, too.

GRIP CASES AND PNEUMONIA INCREASE

Today's report to the Boston Health Department for the twenty-four hour period ending at 9 a. m. showed increases in the number of new Boston cases of both influenza and pneumonia and in the number of deaths from influenza, compared with the reports for the preceding twenty-four hours, ending at 9 a. m. yesterday.

Comparison of today's and yesterday's reports follow:

NEW CASES.

	Influenza.	Pneumonia.	Tb.
Today's report	564	41	585
Yesterday's report	479	10	489
Increase	82	14	96

DEATHS.

Today's report	30	4	34
Yesterday's report	18	7	25
Increase	12	*3	9

*Decrease.

MORTALITY AVERAGE LOWER.

Dr. William C. Woodward, health commissioner, finds encouragement, however, in the mortality figures, on the basis that the mortality average for the past three days is lower than the average for the three preceding days.

The daily mortality average from influenza and pneumonia for December 28, 29 and 30 was 37. For December 31 and January 1 and 2 the average fell to a daily figure of 29.

From this Dr. Woodward argues that the recurrence of the epidemic is not on the increase, so far as mortality goes, but on the wane, in spite of the increasing number of new cases in today's report. The new cases now reported, he says, include many which physicians formerly regarded as common colds, but which they now are careful to report to the health authorities.

A total of forty-one deaths from grip was reported to the health authorities for the twenty-four hours ending Thursday night, showing a slight decrease over the number reported in the preceding twenty-four hours. The number of new cases reported, 585, shows an increase over the preceding day, though this increase is slight. The same situation holds throughout the State. Fifty-two deaths, a decrease, and 3,390 new cases, a small increase, being reported.

BAKER FOR ARMY OF 500,000

Secretary Favors Big Volunteer Force to Supplant National Army

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—A temporary volunteer army of 500,000 to replace the military establishment created for the war was advocated by Secretary Baker when he appeared before the House military affairs committee this afternoon.

Baker said he would ask Congress to authorize the organization of this new army so that demobilization of America's present army could be more rapidly pushed.

He added that 700,000 men had been discharged from the army since the armistice was signed and he expected 1,000,000 more to be discharged during the next five weeks.

To take up each individual case of distress on the part of families of married men still in the army, Baker declared, would serve to "slow up the process of demobilization which was being carried on by units.

"To put one's finger on John Smith or Thomas Brown and designate him for discharge is impracticable," he asserted.

Fireman Armed With Axe Terrorizes Trawler Crew

How a delirious fireman, armed with an axe and a big wrench, terrorized the crew of the steamer trawler Heroine Sunday night in the fishing grounds, was related today when the vessel came to port here.

The crazed fireman, Patrick Tolland of No. 2 Union court, Charlestown, was for a few hours actually master of the destinies of the trawler and her crew. His mates took turns all night standing watch, but Monday morning he was more violent than ever, and threatened the lives of all on board. Captain Michael Wise tried in reason with him Monday morning, but found Tolland inclined to be belligerent, so rushed upon and disarmed him. Tolland was put under guard in the cabin and brought to Boston a prisoner. He was taken to the Marine Hospital today. He lives with his sister, Mrs. Mary Bonner, in Charlestown.

SINK GERMAN FLEET, SAYS RODMAN

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—"The surrendered German navy, with the possible exception of some of the more recently constructed vessels, should be sunk in 200 fathoms of water in the North Sea," Read Admiral Hugh Rodman this afternoon told the House Naval Affairs Committee, which is considering the naval appropriation bill calling for a "United States Navy second to none."

Admiral Rodman, who was divisional commander of the American fleet in European waters, only recently returned from abroad. "Before the declaration of war," the admiral said, "our ships both as to material and personnel were equal to any in the world."

He recounted the visit of King George to the American vessels and confirmed reports that the King is eager for annual visits to be exchanged between the American and British navies.

"This would cement our friendly relations better than any treaty the United States and Britain could sign," the King is reported by Rodman as having said.

He recounted the visit of King panic on the car.

SENATOR REPLIES TO LEWIS

Sees World in Peril Through Delay Over Conference at Versailles

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3. — "Make peace with Germany now lest the world be consumed while we delay."

This warning to President Wilson and the peace conference soon to gather at Versailles was sounded in the Senate this afternoon by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Replying to the charges of Senator James Hamilton Lewis that his opposition and that of Senator Knox to some of the President's peace points was inspired by political ambitions, Senator Lodge said:

"Incredible as it may seem, it is nothing of that sort we are trying to do. Personal ambitions, or the fate of Presidents, or presidential candidates, is infinitely small compared with what is before the Senate as a component part of the treaty-making power of the United States."

High Time That We Get Down to Practical Americanism

The French Government has stated its attitude.

Clemenceau intends to demand not only Alsace-Lorraine, but German territory as far as the Rhine.

He intends to invade Russia.

It was also announced to the French Parliament that publicity will be given to the Peace Conference and the Clemenceau cabinet would accept the principle of a League of Nations.

The British Government has also announced, by degrees, its attitude.

The British Government will accept the principle of a League of Nations.

It will also insist upon England's naval supremacy, and upon the English navy's right to control and blockade neutrals, as well as belligerents, in time of war.

Incidentally, England will benevolently assimilate Egypt, Syria, Palestine, Mesopotamia, Persia, the German African colonies and the German merchant marine and sea trade, and the Dodecanesos.

Italy will insist upon the annexation of the Tyrol, Trieste, Fiume, Dalmatia, Albania and the Dodecanesos.

British and Italian troops will aid French troops in the invasion of Russia, and British naval forces will blockade Russia, in the Baltic Sea and Black Sea, and transport invading forces to the Baltic provinces and to the Ukraine and the Caucasus regions.

No wonder that the French Socialist deputies after the announcement of the Russian policy rose and shouted:

Well, then, the war is beginning all over again!

We Americans cannot control the ambitions and the rapacities of the Allied Powers, and Mr. Wilson's optimistic belief that his admirable idealism is going to result in a substantial change in the nature of European diplomacy and intrigue and acquisitiveness is bound to be disappointed.

He will be feted, cheered, paid royal honors, and have any number of opportunities to talk eloquently.

But there will be no open diplomacy, no publicity as to the PRIVATE peace conferences of which the PUBLIC peace conference will be only a formal ratification; and there will be no League of Nations other than a political alliance of certain European Powers IN AN EFFORT TO DOMINATE THE WORLD.

We are confident that events will justify this forecast.

We went into this European war expressly avowing that we did not want to get anything, and now that our riches and our military and naval reinforcements have snatched the Allies from defeat and made them victors, we will get nothing—just that.

Very good. Let it go at that.

But since France, England and Italy are now resolved to partition among themselves territories which are not French, English or Italian; since the doctrine of self-determination has been thrown on the scrap-pile; and since a new war is to be waged upon the Federated Soviet Republic of Russia, IT IS TIME WE BROUGHT OUR ARMIES HOME from Europe and let Europe's rulers and diplomats play out their old game of grab and divide without any further assistance from democratic America.

We have lost enough American lives.

We have lost enough American money.

It is time to get out of a bloody and ruinous game in which we can only lose MORE LIVES, lose MORE MONEY and get MORE "NOTHING."

Especially, our army and navy should have no part in the invasion of Russia.

We are not at war with the Russian Soviet Republic.

The United States cannot be at war with any government without a declaration of war by the American Congress.

NO PUBLIC OFFICIAL HAS AUTHORITY to send American troops to fight the Soviet Government in Russia or any other Government that may rise to power in Russia, in Eastern Europe, in Germany or anywhere else on the face of the globe, unless he has first had the mandate of the Congress.

The Constitution is express, clear and unmistakable upon this matter.

And if the Constitution did not forbid such a use of American troops, the people of the United States are almost unanimously opposed to an invasion of Russia or any other disturbed country in Europe.

THE PEOPLE OF THE UNITED STATES WANT THEIR SOLDIERS BACK HOME.

The people of the United States want an end put to these enormous war expenses.

The people of the United States have enough taxes to pay, enough bureaucrats to support, enough of autocratic government and more than enough of this intermeddling with European politics.

We Americans are a sensible, practical people, and now that the war fever has cooled off everybody is anxious to get down to normal conditions, to our usual ways of earning our bread and butter and to old and well-tried international policy of minding our own American business and letting European nations mind their own European business.

We know that eight Americans in ten feel just that way today.

Lofty idealism is an admirable thing, but practicabilities come much closer home to the average human being.

The WAR is over.

Now end this WAR COST and TAXATION.

Bring our soldiers home to their folks.

Let the potsherds of Europe strive with the potsherds of Europe.

But let us have peace and peace conditions here in our own land.

OH, WELL, IT ISN'T MINE

"It isn't mine, what do I care?"

How would you like to have a tenant or employe who reasoned thus?

How would you like to have a roomer who spilled ink on your rug, cologne on your mahogany dresser, and burned holes in the curtains and bedding by carelessness and acted louder than words, "What do I care, it isn't mine?"

How would you like to lend your choicest book and have it come home soiled and ear-marked?

How would you like to extend the courtesies of your office and find the recipient of favors ensconced indefinitely at your desk on a busy day?

It is a little different if the house, the business, the articles injured or the time lost is yours, isn't it?

Well, it should not be different.

It make no sort of difference who is the irresponsible person, it is just as disgusting whichever way you look at it.

Because it isn't yours is the very reason you should have honor enough to do your best in care, and show you appreciate the golden rule "do as you would be done by."

ANALYSIS OF JEALOUSY AND THE CURE

By Mrs. Wilson Woodrow

"SET me as a seal upon thine heart, as a seal upon thine arms; for love is strong as death, jealousy is cruel as the grave."

That verse of exquisite poetry came into my mind the other day after receiving a letter from a girl, in which she confessed that she suffered tortures of jealousy. She says:

"Will you please tell me what can overcome my pet fault, jealousy?

"I am past twenty years of age," she goes on, "and should have better sense, but I cannot seem to conquer this dreadful enemy.

"In order to give you an idea of how it affects me, I will tell you some of the things of which I am jealous—friends, both men and women; favors bestowed on others, attention to any one except myself.

"You see, I am not sparing myself; for I know only too well that I am a victim of consuming jealousy and am only too anxious to overcome it.

"I know, too, that I am jealous lots of times when I have no cause. For instance, I am jealous at times of some person paying attention to another when I have no possible right to expect it for myself. You see how hopeless I am, but I do hope you will be able to help me.

Might I add that I never, or at least very seldom—for I may as well be truthful—give exhibitions of my jealousy? I succeed pretty well in concealing it. But, oh, if I only knew some way of overcoming it!

"FLORA."

What Is Jealousy?

"Poor, Blue [illegible] with the Green Eyes," your letter gave me a different idea of jealousy from any I had ever held before, and I immediately sat down and began to think about it.

What is jealousy anyway? It is evidently not one of our ills of the flesh, neither a disease of the mind; but rather of the emotions—one of those ailments which are psychological and which grow by indulgence.

Why do you feel jealous of your friends? Because you think you are losing something that should belong to you. Why are you jealous of favors bestowed on others? Because you want to be the recipient of all the favors that are being passed around. Why do you feel injured when you see some one in whom you have no interest paying attention to another to whom you are equally indifferent? Because you want all the attention that any one has to give.

Those are the only conclusions to be drawn from your statements, but they are so absurd that you will laugh when you see them. You will say: "No; of course I do not mean that. It is just that when I see those things. I feel jealous in spite of myself."

Belittling Yourself

Well, consider the matter more fully. You are jealous of others for possessing qualities that you envy; powers of attraction that you fancy are denied to you. Did you ever stop to think that at the same time they may be envying you for qualities or charms they feel are not theirs?

You are overlooking and belittling your own possessions; namely, your gifts, your talents, your good qualities, your charm of appearance or personality. A mistake. You should rejoice in these things and recognize them.

You only want what is your own, do you not? Then realize that you have within yourself the power to draw to you everything that is truly your own. But you will say: "Then why do I not do so?" It is because you put the wall of an irrational jealousy between them and you. You may think you conceal it, but what we think we always reveal in one way or another.

Striking Against a City.
Patience Versus Cash.
Soldiers in Politics.
A Business Convert.

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1919.)

Two interesting strikes in the United States just now.

One in the insane asylum, at Elgin, Illinois, the other a strike of workers on the street car system in Milwaukee, or rather a strike against the city by the street car system itself.

The gentlemen in charge of the insane inmates walked out because one of them was arrested for brutal treatment of a patient. That is interesting. But it isn't as interesting as the street car strike in Milwaukee. The street car company wanted a six or seven cent fare. The State commission refused. The company said to its employes: "Too bad you are not more highly paid. Why don't you walk out and strike, too? We will pay you more just as soon as the city gets tired of walking and permits us to raise our fare."

Union labor in Milwaukee offers to run the cars, that people may not walk, but the corporation says, "No, only our own faithful, hand-picked 'social welfare' employes are fit to run our pretty cars."

The Milwaukee idea ought to interest New York, Chicago and other big cities where the street car fare is still five cents and the companies would like to have it higher.

Secretary Baker advises American soldiers to be patient about demobilization. Good advice always. Meanwhile, Great Britain is paying five million dollars a week to the unemployed NOW, and is planning great public works to avoid transferring men from a regiment to a bread line.

Men and women out of work in England get an allowance from six to fifteen dollars a week. That is a practical way of meeting a difficult situation.

If a country can afford BILLIONS to make war successful, it can afford MILLIONS to make peace really peaceful.

Should not the United States at least pay each soldier his war wages for six months after demobilization or until the soldier finds work? Is it wise to say to the soldier, "This country could afford to pay you $35 a month to help the country, it can't afford a cent to enable you to help yourselves."

T. A. Bruett, president of the Bruett Lumber Company, who ships about fifteen hundred cars per year, writes:

"I have studied the transportation problem considerably, and up to recently I was averse to government ownership if there were any possible way to avoid it. The more I ponder over the matter the more I realize that government ownership of railroads is the only possible solution of the problem."

The same thing was said to the writer by a man who ships tens of thousands of carloads every year, has an annual income of more than twenty millions and owns scores of thousands of railroad shares.

"Big business" men will gradually realize that THEY more than any other class of citizens are interested in government ownership of railroads and an adequate transportation system. After THEY realize it the thing will be done.

Politicians of America, be warned by English elections, and look out for the soldier in politics.

Asquith, former Prime Minister, to whom Clemenceau gives credit for taking England into the war, was beaten in the parliamentary election. The man who beat him was Colonel Sprot, a Scotch landowner, previously twice defeated by Asquith. But Sprot had been in France fighting for four years. That settled the question and settled Asquith.

When gentlemen are marching home with war records, service stripes and the deserved gratitude of enthusiastic voters, including three or four million young men released from the army, civilians will have to make way for military men in office.

It won't make much difference what you have done, if you didn't fight.

Good news for the new year.

"Employes in all departments of the telegraph systems under government control receive substantial increases in pay."

There is an argument for government ownership. The increased pay means better conditions for thousands of families; better business for thousands of stores. It means to the population what irrigation means to land. Government ownership on a fair basis of purchase will benefit every legitimate business and other interest.

ROME GIVES MIGHTY WELCOME TO WILSON; MET BY KING AT STATION

PRESIDENT TO CALL UPON THE POPE TOMORROW

By JOHN EDWIN NEVIN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Rome, Jan. 3.—President Wilson arrived in Rome today, this being the third allied capital he has visited since he came to Europe. A great crowd gave a vociferous greeting to the American executive.

Tomorrow will be a busy day for the distinguished American visitor. Mr. Wilson will call upon the dowager queen, take lunch at the United States embassy, and hold an interview with Pope Benedict XV.

The whole city was en fete today and the buildings along the streets between the railway station and the Quirinal were gay with flags and bunting.

Thousands of people lined the route of the procession, cheering and waving banners.

President and Mrs. Wilson were accompanied to the palace by King Victor Emmanuel and the Queen and a large suite.

In addition to the draperies of the buildings the streets were lined with Venetian masts, bearing flags and the Italian royal coat of arms.

Formal welcome to the city was given by Prince Colonna, the mayor.

The program for the afternoon and evening included a reception, followed by a banquet.

The freedom of the city will be conferred upon the President this evening.

The weather was superb throughout the trip and the journey was made into Rome without any incident beyond the tumultuous receptions given by the people at the various stations along the route.

HOLIDAY FOR WORKMEN.

In his official greeting the Mayor welcomed the President as "the man whose generous intervention decided the destinies of humanity."

Many of the merchants closed up their stores, giving a holiday to their employes.

The royal waiting room at the station was brilliant with flags. Among those present in this apartment were the King and Queen and the Duchess of Aosta.

The train, which had been making a slow journey from the frontier, was on time, arriving just at noon.

Stops had been made at a number of historic cities on the route and the President and Mrs. Wilson keenly enjoyed every minute of the ride. They were particularly interested in the beautiful scenery along the route.

As the train drew into the city, amidst the noisy demonstrations of the crowds, military airplanes and dirigibles darted back and forth in the sky, adding another thrill to the occasion.

TO HOLD CONFERENCES.

This evening the city will be illuminated more brightly than at any other time since the beginning of the war.

Many of the American journalists who were drawn to Rome by the presence of Mr. Wilson arrived yesterday and were entertained by the Italian newspapermen.

President Wilson's visit to Rome will not be taken up by social affairs entirely, as he plans to hold conferences with members of the government as he did in London.

Mr. Wilson will not only confer with the Pope but with Premier Orlando and Baron Sonnino, the Italian Foreign Minister, as well.

RESCUING SOLDIERS FROM THE NORTHERN PACIFIC

SCULPTOR DUVENACK REPORTED AS DYING

Frank Duvenack, artist and sculptor, the man who executed the bust of Emerson in Emerson Hall at Harvard College, and also the bust of Dr. Charles W. Eliot, is dying in the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati. An honored artist and sculptor he has won international renown and was of the first men who studied art abroad, following the war. This was in 1873. He held an exhibition of his pictures in Boston two years later and refused several flattering offers to remain in this city. Two of his most known pictures are "Whistling Boy" and "Professor Loeffts." In 1916 he was awarded the gold medal for portraiture at the San Francisco Exposition.

WILSON UNABLE TO VISIT SWITZERLAND

Berne, via Paris, Jan. 3.—The American Minister notified the Swiss government that President regrets being unable to visit Switzerland.

BOSTON MEN LEAVE FOR IRISH CONVENTION

Judge Patrick J. Keating of the Superior Court, W. T. A. Fitzgerald, Suffolk register of deeds; Michael J. Jordan and Charles J. O'Malley, all representing the Charitable Irish Society, left Boston at 3 o'clock today for New York as delegates to the convention of Irish societies which opens there tomorrow morning. They will attend the annual banquet of the Irish Historical Society tomorrow night.

SEVEN AUTO DRIVERS PAY $5 FINES FOR SPEEDING

In the Dorchester Court before Judge Joseph R. Churchill the following automobilists paid $5 fines:

Wallace Brigg, Quincy; George M. Nunes, New Bedford; Peter J. Jacastis, Quincy; Roy C. Bailey, Quincy; Albert L. Paeff, Revere; John Jason, New Bedford, and Hartley S. Lolines, Watertown. Four other cases were filed.

Wounded Lawrence Man Went Over the Top 14 Times

By International News Service.

Camp Upton, N. Y., Jan. 3.—Fourteen times in action is the proud record of Corporal J. A. Fortin of Lawrence, Mass., recovering from wounds and smiling and happy in spite of a serious injury to his shoulder and the loss of a portion of three ribs.

Corporal Fortin, who was a militiaman before the war broke out, serving on the border, went overseas with the 102d Field Artillery of the 26th Division. He fought on five fronts, Chemin des Dames, Soissons, Toul, Apremont, Seicheprey, Xivry—"you swoop that one," he says—Paris-Metz road, Belleau Woods and Chateau Thierry.

He was eighty-four days on the Toul front alone and was wounded here by a machine gun bullet which hit him in the left leg. He returned to the lines again, however, until he was again severely wounded on July 28 at Chateau Thierry, a machine gun bullet getting him in the shoulder and a piece of shrapnel wounding him in the back.

NEARLY 20,000 MORE TROOPS COME SOON

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Designations to early convoy of 579 officers and 19,137 men of the American expeditionary forces was announced by General March, chief of staff, today. The number includes 544 officers and 17,739 men of the 41st Division, composed of National Guard troops from Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, North and South Dakota, Colorado, New Mexico and the District of Columbia. They were trained at Camp Greene, N. C.

Carrying a total of approximately fifty-three officers and 1,546 enlisted men of the American expeditionary forces the United States cruiser Seattle sailed from France, December 31, for New York, where it is expected to dock January 10, General March announced.

1,300 TROOPS ARE TAKEN OFF TRANSPORT

293 and 294. A great crowd on the beach watched the rescue work with breathless interest and at times cheers went up as the sturdy sailormen and coast guards battled their way against wind and wave to the side of the great helpless ship.

The first submarine chaser to reach the side of the Northern Pacific was the 292, which had made two previous attempts and was nearly wrecked against the transport's hull in doing so.

Clever steering by the helmsman finally brought the craft under the stern of the grounded vessel and she was made fast. Destroyers were on the scene also. Lifeboats from the destroyers and chasers made their way through the surf after a terrific struggle.

BOSTON MAN RESCUED.

From twenty to twenty-five soldiers were taken on board each of the big lifeboats. The boats were covered with canvas to protect the soldiers from the spray and each one was followed from the Northern Pacific by an empty boat in case of emergency.

There were moments of tense peril as the sick and wounded were being carried down the sea stairs, for the transport was tossing and rolling in the surf and great billows of spray were dashed upwards as the billows pounded the hull.

After eighty sick and wounded had been removed, a halt was called in the work to give the stretcher bearers a rest.

Among those taken from the transport was Lieutenant Frederick H. Prince of Boston, a member of the Lafayette Escadrille.

PREPARE TO PAY BIGGER TAX ON INCOMES

New Law Pending in Congress Affects Individuals More Than Corporations

Boston people lucky or unlucky enough to pay income taxes will probably have their taxes for 1918 computed under the new tax law now pending in Congress. This means among other things a sizeable increase in rates.

At the office of Internal Revenue Agent John F. Malley today it was stated that taxes would be computed at the new figures if the bill becomes law within a reasonable time. A reasonable time is construed by the internal revenue agent's office as before March 1.

The following statement was made to the Boston American at the agent's office:

"Under the present income tax law, reports must be filed on or before March 1. If the proposed change in the income tax law were not in effect before that date, we would naturally compute the tax of the individual according to the old rate, unless an extension of time were granted by Washington. If the bill is actually to become law, and Washington is interested in its success, such an extension of time will doubtless be granted.

"The new income tax law is in many ways different from the present one, both as it affects corporations and individuals. But it principally affects the individual in that it causes him to pay higher taxes on his income. There are also provisions for quarterly payments."

BIG INVASION OF GERMANY THREATENED

British Commander Issues Ultimatum Demanding That Bolsheviki Be Checked

Copenhagen, Jan. 2.—An ultimatum has been served upon the German commander in the Russian Baltic provinces by the British commander, declaring that the Germans must prevent the Bolshevik forces from entering Wolk and Wenden upon penalty of invasion of Germany by allied troops, the Deutsche Tageszeitung (a German newspaper) stated today.

Geneva, Jan. 3.—Czecho-Slav troops are moving towards Vienna and have cut communication between the Austrian and Hungarian capitals. They have entered Pressburg, only thirty miles from Vienna, according to information received here today.

Riots have broken out in Budapest and the city is in panic.

Pekin, Jan. 2.—Omsk, the seat of the ali-Russian government, has been captured by Siberian troops under General Pepelaieff, according to information received here today.

Eight thousand prisoners and many guns were captured, as well as a large supply of ammunition.

Many soldiers of the Red Guard (Bolsheviki) army are surrendering between Perm and Kungur, where they have been cut off from their line of retreat.

Geneva, Jan. 3.—President Masaryk of the Czecho-Slovak republic, according to a Vienna dispatch, announced at Prague that President Wilson and Premiers Lloyd George and Clemenceau have agreed upon the erection of a new German confederation, under the direction of Bavaria and including the separation from Prussia of Posen, Silesia and the Rhine provinces.

The plan alleged to be urged upon the "big three" also includes, according to the Vienna message, the separation of all Hungarian-speaking lands from Austria and the establishment of a Danube confederation under the direction of the Czecho-Slavs.

FULL BENCH DECIDES AGAINST BOTTLING CO.

The full bench of the Supreme Court decides that the Boylston Bottling Company cannot enforce a bond for $500 made by Sarah W. Noonan for the faithful performance of services of Patrick W. O'Neil, who was employed by the plaintiff at a salary of $60 a week to sell beer in Brookline, a no-license town. The bottling company claimed that O'Neil failed to account for goods he received, and in the Municipal Court Judge Wentworth found for the company in the sum of $451.45. The Supreme Court in reversing the finding of Judge Wentworth, holds that the business carried on by O'Neil was illegal. O'Neil had a license from the town of Brookline to do an express business, and to deliver liquors in that town.

ATE ARSENATE OF LEAD; SEEKS $12,000 DAMAGES

Burlington, Vt., Jan. 3.—Because he accidentally ate arsenate of lead in his biscuits instead of a wheat substitute, Frank C. French, of Poultney, has sued the Norton Hardware Company of Fair Haven for $12,000. French bought the poison and placed it with his groceries. The poison was unlabelled and his wife, thinking it was a wheat substitute used it in making biscuits. French was the only member of the family who was made ill. He claims that his stomach, intestines and muscles are permanently affected.

BRIDGEWORKER'S SLAYER IS HANGED IN TORONTO

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 3.—His face streaming with perspiration and almost in a state of collapse, Hassan Neby paid by hanging the extreme penalty for the murder of George Tucker, the C. P. R. bridgeworker at Weston on May 19, at the Toronto jail today. He protested his innocence to the last.

FOUND DEAD IN BED WITH FAMILY AWAY

Jacob R. Sallen, fifty-seven years old, was found dead in bed at his home at No. 72 Littlefield street, Houghs Neck, early today. He was fully dressed and had evidently been dead since Monday. Sallen was employed at the Fore River ship yards. His wife and two daughters have been visiting in Providence, R. I., over the Christmas holidays, and Sallen's neighbors became suspicious that something was wrong when it developed that nobody had seen him since Monday.

COOLIDGE HONOR GUEST OF FIRST MOTOR CORPS

Governor Calvin Coolidge is believed to have broken all precedents set by former Massachusetts governors when he attended on the night of his inaugural a reception in his honor by the First Motor Corps. Governor Coolidge consented to the affair because of the fact that the First Motor Corps is made up of the older members of the old First Corps Cadets, of which he was once commander. The reception was in the First Corps Cadets armory, and was attended by 2,500 persons. Officers of the 101st Infantry from overseas were present. In the receiving line with Governor and Mrs. Coolidge were Colonel and Mrs. John Greene, and among the guests were Brigadier-General John P. Rockman and Rear Admiral Spencer S. Wood.

MEDFORD WANTS OLD TRAIN SERVICE RESTORED

The ancient question of the adequacy of the Boston & Maine passenger service is to be raked over again at a hearing before the Public Service Commission January 10. The hearing is to determine what to do with a petition of many Medford citizens, who want the former service of the Medford branch restored. The petitioners ask for the restoration of all the trains taken off in the early stages of the war, but would be satisfied with one additional train during rush hours.

CHURCH MEN FOR LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Bearing the "balance of power" idea and going on record in favor of a world league of nations, the international relations committee of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches urges in a resolution that the latter plan dominate the coming peace conference.

SEVEN SUSPECTS ARE SOUGHT IN MURDER OF RICH MAINE WIDOW

ROCKLAND DOUBLES REWARD

Bay State Police Asked to Co-operate in Search for Mrs. Brown's Slayer

Rockland, Me., Jan. 3.—Seven suspects are being sought by the police, and at least twelve New England cities are involved, in the investigation today of the murder of Mrs. Carolyn Well Brown, the wealthy and attractive Rockland woman whose brutal murder has aroused the entire State.

The man about whom suspicion concentrates is one Alli Tuarlainen, a Finn, for whose apprehension the police have sent out 200 descriptive circulars.

Other possible suspects are a man named Alfred W. Perkins, a chef from Belgrade and Delbo, Me., who attempted suicide in Brunswick; a man who entered the restaurant of Bert Angel, this city, about 4:30 a. m. on the day the crime was discovered, and the description of whom does not wholly tally with that of Tuarlainen; Fred Thibedeau, the notorious slugger, with three companions broke jail in Bangor last Carty, Cremler and Long.

In addition to the $1,000 reward offered by public-spirited citizens for the capture of the murderer of Mrs. Brown, the police have offered a like amount. A new development in the case is the possibility that the victim may have been drugged before being attacked. On this theory the stomach has been sent to the Bowdoin College School of Medicine for analysis, at the suggestion of Dr. George H. Magrath of Boston, medical examiner for Suffolk county, who is aiding the local and State police here. Superintendent Greene of the Pinkerton Detective Agency is also here in response to a summons by County Attorney Wilder.

Tuarlainen, about whom the suspicion of the police chiefly centres, is five feet ten or eleven inches tall, erect, with broad shoulders, dark complexion, dark mustache, cut short, and the thumb of one hand is either lost or mutilated. He wore when last seen a Winter cap which had ear pieces turned down and tied in front; a long overcoat, either dark brown or black, with collar turned up, and a number nine shoe, with a low, flat heel.

It is alleged that Tuarlainen has served time in Pittsburg for attacking a girl, and he was involved in an attack on a Thomaston girl, according to State police.

STARTED FOR HARTLAND.

According to acquaintances here, he left Rockland on the day after Christmas, saying that he was going to make a visit in Hartland. The police of that place, also of Pittsfield and Paris, Maine, and of Worcester and Fitchburg, Mass., have been notified to be on the look-out for a man of his description.

"We are by no means certain that Tuarlainen is the man who committed this crime," said State Detective Fred A. Tarbox of Biddeford today. "He is wanted because he may possibly be the man for whom we are searching."

Perkins, the chef who attempted suicide at Brunswick is known to the Bangor police as a man who is "in the habit of using cocaine." He made an attempt to jump from a street car between Bath and Brunswick late yesterday, but was restrained by passengers. Arrived in Brunswick, he was heard to declare that he had "done something," and "might as well die now as later," and threw himself under a slowly-moving freight train. He sustained a broken arm, but was rescued and locked up.

CALLED AT LUNCH ROOM.

According to Bert Angel, who runs an all-night lunch near the Rockland Hotel, where Mrs. Brown spent the last evening of her life, a man entered his place of business about 4:30 on the morning the crime was discovered and asked for a cup of coffee. The description of him tallies with that of Tuarlainen given out by the police, save in the matter of complexion. According to Angel, this man was light, almost sandy-haired, instead of dark, like Tuarlainen.

Angel's description coincides with a statement given by Miss Cora Ford, a housemaid, who tells of being accosted by a man on the night of the murder.

In appeal for the co-operation of the citizens of Knox County in running down the guilty fugitive has been issued by Mayor Frank C. Fliat. His appeal says:

"As Mayor of the city of Rockland, I want to, and do appeal to every law-abiding citizen to lend whatever effort he is able toward clearing up the mystery of this shocking murder which has taken from us a truly estimable woman.

"The murder of Mrs. Brown was such a brutally cold-blooded affair that it has aroused our citizens to great indignation. We cannot rest until we have smelt ourselves in bringing to justice the cuipit responsible for this crime.

"The citizens of Rockland are determined to avenge the death of this defenceless woman. No effort will be spared in the accomplishment of that purpose. As an incentive to the speedy apprehension of the guilty party the city of Rockland hereby offers a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of Mrs. Brown's murderer."

MAGRATH'S STATEMENT.

Medical Examiner George Burgess Magrath gave out the following statement following the completion of five hours' work on the body of the murdered woman:

"I was called into this case at the solicitation of County Attorney Wilder. My work is half done. I have made a close study of the body of Mrs. Brown. Further study of the case will be considered today. My deductions, therefore, are necessarily incomplete.

"In my opinion, Mrs. Brown came to her death from the effects of clubbing. From what they tell me of the way the crime involved, I should say that it fitted the crime admirably. The results of microscopic analysis must, of necessity, be slow."

WOULD ABOLISH BOSTON POLICE RESERVES

The new Legislature will be asked to abolish the Boston police reserves.

This is chief among a number of recommendations filed by State boards and commissions at the State House.

Boston's licensing board asks authority to suspend common victuallers's licenses.

The minimum wage board wants authority to do a number of things, among them to keep records of women and children workers.

The Civil Service Commission desires power to fix salaries in its own department, subject to the approval of the Governor and the council, and the State Agricultural College wants $1,000 appropriated for a women's building, improvements and the market garden field station.

Six more flaming destroyers of the American overseas fleet slipped into Boston Harbor unannounced today, and had poked their way through the upper harbor almost to Commonwealth Pier before they were discovered by the harbor craft. The coming of the fleet was a surprise to all but the higher officials of the Charlestown Navy Yard, and even they had short notice of the approach of the destroyers.

It was almost 7:30 when the first of the ships was sighted by the boats in the harbor. The Stevens was leading them in, the homeward-bound pennant flattering from the masthead.

She was sighted by men aboard a tugboat, and in an instant the upper harbor was a pandemonium of sound. Sirens sounded, smaller whistles shrilled, crews of coast and harbor boats lined up at the deckrails and yelled a welcome home.

The watchers were not aware that there was more than one destroyer, and when five other gray shapes glided silently out of the fog, like phantom ships, the notice that had gone before was made to seem like silence. Boston harbor went wild. All the destroyers were painted war gray and all were in first-class fighting trim.

The destroyers, besides the Stevens, were the Paulding, the Jenkins, the Cassin, the Tripp and the Cunningham, and they are among the most efficient units of the naval fighting force overseas by Uncle Sam. The Cunningham, the Cassin and the Tripp will be recognized as more or less famous in naval annals, and named for naval commanders who brought glory to the United States.

Thirty-five minutes after they had been sighted the six destroyers had been maneuvred into berths at the navy yard, and only then did the officers and men of the harbor welcomed them dis down. The boys who lined the deck rails acted as if they would swim ashore in their impatience to get back on U. S. soil, and were impatient at the delays which will interfers with their coming ashore at once.

The destroyers came home by the southeastern course, by way of Bermuda, as have most of the smaller craft from overseas.

"Boston harbor workers certainly know how to give us a welcome back to our own land," said a young jackie as the Stevens swung into her berth.

SPECIAL NOTICE

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

WOMAN'S BODY IS FOUND UNDER ICE IN POND

The mystery of the disappearance of Margaret Cashman of Watertown six weeks ago was cleared up today, when her body was found just under the ice of a pond near her home.

The water had been dragged again and again in response to appeals of her relatives. There were indications that the machinery used in dragging had only served to force the woman's body further down into the mud. The medical authorities have taken charge, and there may be an autopsy.

Margaret Cashman disappeared from the home of her brother John in Beachwood avenue, Watertown, about six weeks ago, leaving a note indicating despondency and an intention of making away with herself.

ACCUSED OF ATTEMPT TO ROB WOMAN IN SALOON

Eugene A. Callahan of Smith street, Roxbury, was charged with drunkenness, assault and battery and as a tenent at larceny from Mrs. Annie M Carty of the Cottage Tap. The latteny count was filed, and he was given three months on the others, which he appealed. He was held in $500 for the Superior Court. Callahan entered the Cottage Tap, of which Mrs. Carty is proprietor, and attempted to break into the cash register, according to the story told in court. He then jumped over the bar, broke 90 wine glasses and scattered bottles of whiskey. He escaped, but was later arrested by Patrolman McCain.

WALTHAM WATCH DAY NURSERY NEARLY READY

Work on the day nursery, started by the Waltham Watch Company, to enable mothers with children to work, is nearly finished. An eight-room house within a hundred yards of the factory, with spacious grounds for play, has been renovated and is to be used for this purpose. The nursery will be in charge of Mrs L. J. Atkins, assisted by Mrs. Mary Hill and Mrs. Clara Ryan. A doctor and nurse will attend the children daily.

Craven's Daughter in "Runaway" Marriage

By International News Service.

Springfield, Jan. 3.—A military romance culminating in a wedding here New Year's Eve became known today when it was discovered that Lieutenant Herman Armour Nichols of Rye, N. Y., son of Mrs. Mary Armour Nichols of the Chicago Armours, and Miss Mae Lynett Craven of New York, daughter of James B. Craven, a civil engineer of international fame, had been married at St. Peter's Episcopal Church.

The couple are to have had an elaborate wedding in New York but the bride's sister who resides here became ill and the young people postponed the wedding to come here and see her. They finally decided to make the trip their honeymoon and accordingly went to Judge Sibley of this city and procured a special marriage permit so that the usual delay of five days after filing marriage intentions could be avoided.

YEOWOMEN RELEASED AT THEIR OWN REQUEST

Portsmouth, N. H., Jan. 3.—At their own request, eight yeowomen were released from Portsmouth Navy Yard today, the first to be let go since the signing of the armistice. They are placed on the inactive list. They were Marion Abrams of Kittery, Misara Trumbull of Newcastle, N. H. Marguerite Hand, Ruth Wilmot, Anna O'Keefe and Anna Hindman of Portsmouth, and Lillian Miller and Vera Blaisdell of Boston. Yeowoman Louise Carney of Boston has asked for a transfer.

Copenhagen, Jan. 3.—British troops have been landed at Riga and Windau, according to reports from Stockholm. A Berlin dispatch admits the Bolsheviki have captured Riga from the Germans.

GOMPERS FIGHTS COMPULSORY ARBITRATION

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Organized labor's unqualified opposition to any legislation savoring of compulsory arbitration was voiced by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, before the Senate committee on education and labor today when the committee opened its hearings on the administration's labor reconstruction bill.

"There are several proposals in this bill," said Gompers, "which are repugnant to the very spirit of freedom. We must rid ourselves of speculative theories and outline a practical piece of constructive legislation.

"Within the last two days New Zealand, home of compulsory arbitration, has admitted the failure of compulsory arbitration and recognized the right of the worker to strike.

"Gentlemen, Bills it behind any phraseology you will, when the law and the government of the country is back of the worker 'You cannot leave his work' that moment you have put the shackles upon him.

"Drastic use of Strikes to the people," continued Gompers, "is of much more import than freedom."

Gompers pointed out that the one state in the country that had passed compulsory arbitration—Colorado—has been in a turmoil ever since and that this was only ended when the workers took the law into their own hands and as he put it, "simply struck."

Man Injured by Car

John H. Moore, sixty-three years old, of No. 10 Harvard avenue, was seriously injured opposite No. 278 Washington street, Dorchester, when he was knocked down and dragged a distance of twenty-five feet by a Norfolk street electric. He was taken to the City Hospital, where he is suffering from the fractura of both legs and the skull. His condition is critical.

MILK PRICE, BY PINTS, NOW 19 CENTS.

Boston's milk price list, which has been fixed by the Regional Milk Commission for January, February and March at 9½ cents per single pint, and 16½ cents per quart.

In other words a quart of milk purchased in two pint bottles would cost the consumer 3 cents, or 2½ cents more than by the quart. This is an increase of a half cent a single pint over the price that has prevailed during the early half of the Winter.

"The reason for the increase is because of the cost of handling," is the way the increase is explained by Charles Whiting, one of the milk dealers. "Pint packages of milk have long been selling at the cost. It costs as much to deliver a pint bottle of milk as it does to deliver a quart. It costs as much to fill the bottle, to process the milk, to handle the bottles and to count them, and then to deliver them to the houses. The milk itself is only half the cost, you understand. All the rest of it is charged to handling, processing, package and delivery, after it gets to Boston.

"We have long been trying to improve this situation so that we would not be selling pint below cost, and with the new price we think we have done it. Tables of costs have been submitted to the commission and the price fixed accordingly."

NO MORE FOR PRODUCER.

While the consumer is paying more for milk than he ever was in his life, while the dealer is getting more for the product, the farmer who raises the milk, way back in Maine, New Hampshire or Vermont or over in New York near the Massachusetts State line, is not receiving a cent more for it.

"The farmer is not getting any more for the milk, even with this increase"—this, from Richard Pattee, secretary of the New England Milk Producers' Association. "The farmer is getting between 7 and 7½ cents a quart for his milk, according to the zone that he is in. He receives 9.75 cents per quart, f. o. b. Boston. The difference between what he is paid by the dealer and what he actually gets at the farm is charged up to freight, to refrigeration and to the cost of transportation.

"The public does not realize how much it is paying for service. When you pay 16½ cents per quart for milk, delivered at your door, or 9 cents a quart, if you happen to be buying it in pints, you are not paying for milk. Remember that.

"The farmer is not getting that price for it. You are paying less than 8 cents to the farmer and the rest goes to the railroads and to the dealers, for the service that brings it to your doors.

HOPE FOR REDUCTION IN SPRING.

The Federal Milk Commission automatically goes out of existence on April 1. This is the flood tide in the production of milk, and dealers look for a considerable drop in the price, to the consumer, at that time.

While Boston is paying a thirty-cent increase after increase in milk prices, New York nearly faces a milk famine, because of the failure of the dealers and the Dairymen's League to agree upon a price.

The Dairymen's League has demanded a price of $4 per quart for milk delivered in the country, while the dealers, believing that market conditions justify a reduction, have rejected a reduction, have offered the dairymen $3.41 per quart. That price would allow a reduction of a cent a quart to the consumer.

The price offered the farmer in New York by the dealer is obviously higher than the price paid in Massachusetts, farmer for milk and higher also than that paid to farmers serving other large cities, such as Chicago, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

REFUSE TO SELL MILK.

The Dairymen's League, as a consequence, has refused to sell any milk and the shortage of the supply today is 1,000,000 quarts, somewhere between one-fifth and one-quarter of the daily supply.

An effort is being made to secure enough for the children, the babies, invalids and the hospitals until an adequate supply can be obtained in the city from sources other than the State Food Administration.

A milk inquiry called the John Doe Inquiry is being conducted in New York and has as its object to find the fact that producers throughout, not only New York State, but organizations of dairymen in Pennsylvania, Chicago and Boston have been circularized and that letters alleged to have been sent them all, notifying them that "the fight is on."

Where the Money That People Pay for Milk Goes

Here is where the money you pay for milk goes:

Boston householders are paying 16½ cents per single quart, or 19 cents in pints, for milk.

It goes:—

To the farmer—7 and 7½ cents per quart.

To the railroad—2¼ cents or 2⅝ cents a quart—the difference between what the farmer gets and what the dealer pays, 9.75 cents per quart, f. o. b. Boston.

To the dealer—6¾ cents per quart or 9¼ cents—the difference between the 9.75 cents and the cost of a quart, 16½ cents, and 19 cents in pints, to the consumer.

This cost is distributed over handling, processing, packaging and delivery of milk.

A short time ago Richard Pattee, secretary of the New England Milk Producers' Association, charged that one firm of distributors was making a net profit of $40,000 per month—or $480,000 per year!

STORROW QUITS FUEL JOB FOR REST IN SOUTH

Today was moving day for the State Fuel Administration. James J. Storrow, fuel head for Massachusetts and New England, completed his duties as such today, and will leave shortly for a trip South to take a rest. It will take several days to finish up the affairs of the State organization, but details will be completed at Mr Storrow's office, No. 41 State street.

SAVE—and Succeed!

Success and Thrift are synonymous—the first is dependent upon the last. For no matter how great your income may be, until you have learned to save a definite part of it, you cannot be successful. You cannot be truly successful. Save something, no matter how small the sum, each pay day, and deposit it.

Franklin said:

"The way to wealth is as plain as the way to market. It consists mainly in two words, industry and frugality; that is, not money, but time and money, but make the best use of both."

ISSUES WARNING ON DANGERS OF BOLSHEVISM

Whole of Russian Body Politic Is Threatened, Declares Journalist

By M. ROSTOVTZEV.

A Russian Author and Journalist.

Petrograd, Jan. 5.—The great war has ended with the brilliant and complete victory of the allies—in the first and longest period by the united efforts of Russia, Britain, France and Italy; in the second by those of Britain, France, Italy and America. Germany's dream of a world-wide German state has been scattered like smoke.

The leader of this world-wide state is seeking an asylum in that very country which would have been the first to feel the yoke of a world-wide German monarchy. A forced and slavish German "League" of Nations has not come into existence, and we dream of another free League of Peoples and States under the protection of a new and real international law that will omit the word "war" as the factor that decides everything.

Europe is tired. She longs for peace, longs to return to the conditions of life which obtained before the war, longs to exchange the grey, military khaki for the rich variety of ordinary civil life.

But I fear that as one war is ended another is beginning, and one still more terrible, still more cruel and still more pitiless. It is a war for which Europe and America are not prepared, but for which those who are on the point of beginning it have long been ready. They have not fought and were not willing to fight; they are not tired, and peace is not necessary to them.

BOLSHEVIK TEACHING.

The Bolsheviks in Russia have long since unfurled the blood-red banner of social revolution, the banner of fire and destruction, the banner of unceasing civil war—a war of all against all. The aim of this war is the annihilation of the bourgeoisie (middle-classes) and of the European culture that is closely bound up with it. The banner of Bolshevism calls for the annihilation of one class by another; it strives to bring disunion into every family, into every public group. Brother is to rise up against brother.

Men are now executed in Russia not only for their actions, but for their words; before long they will be executed for thoughts that are inconvenient and unpleasant to Bolshevism.

This is the fate that the Bolsheviks are preparing for the rest of Europe also. For them the victory of the allies is both a danger and an advantage. It is a danger because they foresee the possibility of a speedy liquidation of their activity and the judgment that threatens them. It is an advantage because they hope to deceive the victors, to play upon their feelings of humanity and their disgust of violence, while they themselves, taking refuge under the cover of liberalism and democracy, hope to spread confusion and disorder in their ranks.

NO HALFWAY MEASURES.

We have no reason to think that in Germany Bolshevism will stop half-way. In Russia, too, the Bolsheviks were at first few in numbers, and they did not play a decisive part, moreover, they did not even attempt to do so. They prepared cadres of agitators and divided the masses, preparing for their decisive attack on liberty and culture.

For the time being the Bolsevik cannot promise to satisfy Germany, as they did so successfully in Russia. It is for this reason that in Germany the soldiers have temporarily gone against a considerable part of the workmen, and at the present moment are supporting the Moderate Socialists and opposing Liebknecht and the Spartacus group.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a small bottle of Danderine at any drug store for a few cents, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning, most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared, and three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.—Advertisement.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK CROSS, FEVERISH

Hurry, Mother! Remove poisons from little stomach, liver, bowels.

Give "California Syrup of Figs" at once if bilious or constipated.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has sore throat, stuffy nose, throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the undigested, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative"; they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure your child is getting it, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Advertisement.

FIRE DESTROYS A GARAGE IN PARK

Fire, believed to have started from spontaneous combustion, caused damage estimated at $5,000 to the two-story brick garage on the Morton street side of Franklin Park. The building was owned by the city of Boston, and was occupied by the park and recreation department.

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR GAS POISON VICTIMS

Funeral services for Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Schortmann, two of the four victims who were found dead in the home at No. 12 Schortmann's terrace, West Roxbury, on New Year's Day from gas poisoning, will be held Saturday. The services will be held in the chapel at Brookdale Cemetery, Dedham, at 2 p. m.

The bodies of Miss Annie Schortmann and Miss Margaret Fraser of Oldtown, Me., who were visiting the Schortmanns over the holidays and were also victims of the gas poisoning, were taken to Oldtown, where services will be held.

Quinine That Does Not Affect Head because of its tonic and laxative effect, LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE (Tablets) can be taken by anyone without causing nervousness or ringing in the head. There is only one "Bromo Quinine." W. GROVE'S signature on the box. 30c.—Advt.

DR. MULLOWNEY ASKS MAYOR FOR HEARING

Resents Charge of Incompetency in His Work as Boston Food Inspector

Dr. P. H. Mullowney, chief of the Food Inspection Division of the Boston Health Department, who was suspended by Mayor Peters on a technical charge of being "absent without leave," has sent the following letter to Mayor Peters asking for a public hearing:

In the Boston press of December 28, a statement is attributed to you that my services, while in charge of the Food Inspection Division of the Health Department, City of Boston, were considered by Health Commissioner Woodward to be unsatisfactory, thereby intimating that one reason for my suspension was on account of inefficiency in conducting the affairs of that division.

Commissioner Woodward is reported to have said that the matter was a closed book with him, but I am writing you now to grant me a public hearing when Commissioner Woodward can bring forth all charges of incompetency and I will be prepared to meet them.

In order that the matter may be thoroughly gone into, I respectfully suggest that the Boston Finance Commission be requested to make a searching investigation of my conduct of the affairs of the Food Inspection Division.

26TH DIVISION LEADS IN MOVING PICTURES

"More moving pictures were taken of the 26th Division than of any other on account of their activity," said a letter received today by Major-General Clarence R. Edwards, commanding the Northeastern Department, from Colonel R. H. C. Kelton of the general staff at Washington. Colonel Kelton will speak under the auspices of the Special Aid Society in Jordan Hall, January 11 on Chateau Thierry. He will tell of the capture of Torcy by the 26th on July 22.

AUTOIST HELD IN $2,000 IN DANVERS MAN'S DEATH

Salem, Jan. 3.—Thomas Robinson of Middleton was held in $2,000 bonds for the grand jury today on a charge of manslaughter. He is charged with having caused the death of Jacob Whipple, an aged Danvers man, by knocking him in front of an electric car with his automobile on the night of November 28, 1918, on Water street, Danvers. Robinson admitted the details of the accident, but stated that he was using due care at that time.

SEEKS THE RIGHT TO RAISE $400,000

The Worcester Electric Light Company has asked the Board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners for permission to issue 4,000 additional shares of stock at $100 a share. The issue is to meet the cost of improvements. The Lowell Electric Light Corporation asks authority to issue 2,941 shares at $125 a share for the same purpose.

NAVY MEN IN RETREAT AT BRIGHTON MONASTERY

A retreat for men of the navy will open at six o'clock tonight at the Blessed Gabriel Monastery in Brighton. It will continue until Monday. About twenty-five men have enrolled. STORM SOUNDS NEWTON BANK BURGLAR ALARM

Newton police had a flurry of excitement today when the burglar alarm of the Newton Trust Company rang sharply at an hour before the bank was due to open. Three officers from headquarters rushed to the scene. Finding everything serene and no evidence of any "break," they investigated. The mischief-maker proved to be the storm, which had affected the wires.

SHOULD MAKE A MILLION FOR HIM

Cincinnati man discovers drug that loosens corns so they lift out.

Loyal druggists all over the country are unanimous call for freezone, the drug which is said to shrivel a corn, root and all, without any pain.

A few drops of freezone applied directly upon a tender, aching corn relieves the soreness at once, and shortly the entire corn, root and all, lifts right out with the fingers.

This new drug is being dispensed at small cost in quarter ounce bottles, which is sufficient to take off every hard or soft corn from one's feet. It is a sticky substance which dries at once, and does not inflame or even irritate the surrounding tissue or skin. There is no excuse for anyone inviting death by infection or lockjaw from cutting their corns now.—Advertisement.

ADVERTISE YOUR WANTS IN THE BOSTON AMERICAN

COLD SNAP ON THE WAY, DUE TOMORROW

Thirty-four degrees below zero was the record today at Moorhead, Minn. This is the coldest point in the country today, and also the lowest temperature recorded thus far this year.

A cold wave is sweeping the entire country with the exception of the coast states, both Atlantic and Pacific. While it is not expected to strike Boston with the force it has developed in other places, a drop in temperature is expected for tomorrow, which will last until Sunday, reports state.

Weather despatches from New York predict a drop of 20 degrees within 24 hours, which will make the thermometer tomorrow stand at about 12 degrees.

Instead of the cold snap, Southern New England had storms and the South Atlantic States, rain, today.

A storm of considerable intensity was reported sweeping the coast from Eastport, Me., to Marblehead from the northeast. Gales and snow were expected by tonight.

Some of the temperatures reported are: Twenty-six below at White River, Ont.; 16 below at Des Moines, Ia.; 24 below at Cochrane, Ont.; 23 below at Duluth and at St. Paul, Minn.; 23 below at Winnipeg.

DR. DILLON'S ARTICLE

French Press Favors Big British Navy

Dr. E. J. Dillon, one of the world's greatest journalists, will report the peace proceedings, upon which the eyes of the world are now centred, for New England readers exclusively through the columns of the Boston American. Dr. Dillon will write upon the preliminaries leading up to the main Peace Conference and upon the Versailles session both.

By DR. E. J. DILLON

(Copyright in the United States and Canada by Public Ledger. Copyright in Europe by the London Daily Telegraph.)

Paris, Jan. 3.—French papers publish Secretary Daniels' demand for a three-years' naval program with a clause that in case there be not a general international agreement for reducing armaments President Wilson shall be authorized to start the construction of war vessels. Some journals, like the Figaro, conclude that this provision reflects a fluctuation in America's naval policy.

The European press is unaware that this clause has been a part of United States law for two years and has not been introduced for the first time.

The naval appropriation bill has started afresh the vexed question of the liberty of the seas, and most journals demand a precise definition of what the term signifies while declaring Britain cannot abandon in war time the right to drive enemy commerce off the water and establish a blockade. The Figaro adds:

"What we shall energetically demand is that the British navy shall continue to maintain the high standard of power which it has already attained."

From everything I have heretofore observed of the whole subject has been unnecessarily obscured. First by vagueness of terminology and then by indiscreet silence.

Press discussions are beside the mark, resembling the debates of the Berlin Academicians, who, when asked by the great Frederick why a full tumbler of water overflows if a small dead fish be lowered into it, but does not overflow if the fish is living, offered various explanations until one professor tried the experiment and demonstrated the needlessness of explanation because the statement was groundless.

Similarly when the problem of liberty of the seas comes up for discussion the public will be surprised to learn that no storm has rent the conference in twain.

The state of the question as I apprehend it is this:

Heretofore there were certain laws imperfectly codified but generally respected tending to keep military violence in wartime within certain broad limits. On land these regulations were settled not by any one power however strong, but by the common consent of all.

Transgressions were not unknown, but neither were they fundamental. This state of things continued until the recent conflict when Germany broke through them all and united the civilized world against her.

NOT ON LAND.

Now nothing corresponding to the accepted restrictions governing war on land existed or exists for warfare on the sea. Whatever limitations obtained were dependent entirely upon the good will of the strongest naval state.

That state laid down the law and modified or revoked it according to necessity or caprice. To this reign of arbitrary rule the advocates of the new arrangement are desirous of putting an end. They seek to infuse a spirit of legality and attainable humanity into fluctuating usages of naval warfare.

This, at the bottom, is the main object they have set for themselves, everything else is secondary. Indefensible conceptions and remote ideals have no place in their program.

Paying due deference to concrete circumstances and reconciling needs of naval States, they ask only that a code of rational laws obligatory to all shall be accepted to by those States whose warships rule the waves.

NO CONTEST WITH ENGLAND.

The notion that the American people are preparing to enter into systematic competition with Britain on the sea is utterly unfounded. The grounds alleged by Secretary Daniels for the appropriation bill exclude any such supposition, but are of commanding significance in appreciating the necessity for a clear and binding international contention, which will not merely lay down rules of naval warfare, but will also, if circumstances are favorable, extend over a wider field and establish a fair ratio between real needs and the lowest, efficient means of satisfying them.

This would appear to be the essence of what is aimed at in the first instance. For nobody seriously imagines that after a world war which has shaken the foundation of the political and social structure throughout the globe, a conference assembling to compose secular disputes can carry things much further in the course of a few months, but the door will be left open for ulterior endeavors.

There is no doubt, for instance, that special conferences will be held periodically for the purpose of embodying in laws those far-reaching transformations which the humanitarian spirit of progressive peoples are even now silently effecting.

GERMANS STILL UNBEATEN, SAYS SUSIE

By BERT FORD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army of Occupation in Germany, Jan. 3. (By Courier to Nancy).—Susie is only the chambermaid in the hotel in Coblenz where the American war correspondents are quartered, but her view on the outcome of the war reflects the general German opinion, and it is well worth listening to.

Susie is attentive to her duties, but in her leisure she reads her German paper and keeps up with the times. She cannot speak English, and when she converses with the American guests she has to talk through an interpreter.

"The Germans were not defeated," declared Susie with a great deal of spirit. "They were simply forced to quit by superior numbers. If the United States had not been drawn into the conflict it would have been a different story.

"The sinking of the Lusitania was a war necessity. But the U-boats brought bad luck to Germany after all.

Ludendorff and Von Tirpitz were no good. Hindenburg is the real German hero. God was with us, not with the allies.

"We expect the Americans to stay four months and then leave after peace is signed.

"Everybody thought that the allied troops would do the same in Prussia as the Germans did in Belgium. But the German women and girls soon found that they would not have to flee. We are not afraid of the American soldiers. They are good and gentle—when not in battle. In fact we are kind of glad to have them here.

"The German people were overjoyed at the outbreak of the war. They considered it a just war. I had two brothers in the war. One was killed, but the other came home Christmas after fighting on both the western and Russian fronts. He was certainly surprised when he came home to find four American soldiers sitting around a Christmas tree right at this hotel.

"The Germans began to lose faith last July and from then on it went from bad to worse.

"We are all glad the war is over, but Germany was not defeated."

Susie said her brother considered the western front a much harder proposition than the eastern.

PLEAD GUILTY TO THEFT OF TWO TONS OF COAL

Richard Keating, thirty-four years old, living on Concord avenue, Cambridge, and John J. Driscoll, thirty-one, of Richdale avenue, Cambridge, were arraigned in Somerville Police Court today, charged with the larceny of two tons of nut coal from a wagon belonging to Frank A. Teele, of Davis square, West Somerville. They pleaded guilty and were held in $200 each for sentence Monday.

HIGH RECORD IN PETROLEUM STOCKS

The New York market was moderately active. Steels and Coppers were quiet in the early part of the day. Oil stocks were strong. Mexican Petroleum was a feature, boiling up to the new high record of 196, after an early loss of 2½, at 186¾, it then settled back to 192½. Pan-American Oil was up 2 points, at 74; Texas Company 3¾, at 151¾, and Sinclair Oil 1¼, at 58¾. Tobacco issues were prominent. Tobacco Products rose 1⅝, to 75¾, and Cigar Stores 1⅜, to 109¾.

Southern Pacific was an active rail, selling up 1¼, to 104½. Reading lost ¼, at 82½, after a gain of ¼, at 83. Union Pacific sold 129⅝, up ⅝.

U. S. Steel opened at 95½, rose to 96¾, up ⅜, receded to 95 in the second hour. Baldwin Locomotive advanced 1 to 76¼.

Anaconda opened off 1 at 60 and rose to 60½; Inspiration was unchanged at 48⅝, and Utah up ⅜, at 74⅜. American Smelting lost ⅛, at 77.

Marine pf. sold at 112, up ¼; Distillers 52, up ¼; American Can, 48⅝, up ⅛, and Corn Products 49, up ⅜. U. S. Rubber lost 1⅛, at 77½, but recovered its loss at 79¼.

The Boston market was irregular. American Telephone lost ¼, at 100⅝; Century Steel ⅜, at 14⅝, and North Butte ⅛, at 10⅝; Boston Elevated was up ⅜, at 68; Island Oil ¼, at 6⅜, and Ventura ⅛, at 8⅜; Swift & Company 125; United Shoe 45 and Copper Range 41⅝ were unchanged. Mohawk rose a point to 54 and American Zinc sold fractionally higher at 12⅝.

NEWPORT NAVY PLANT WILL COST $1,250,000

Newport, R. I., Jan. 3.— Gould Island, when completed, will be a $1,250,000 project. Although not generality known, the whole project, including plans to the last detail for the development of this vast navy plant, is the work of a Newport man, William H. Bevans, chief draughtsman at the torpedo station for eleven years. There will be ten large magazines, each to hold 200,000 pounds of TNT, the most powerful explosive in the world.

Busy Year for Mints Meeting Call for 1-Cent Pieces

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—Great demand for 1-cent pieces, caused by cold war tax prices, gave the United States mints a busy time last year, Ray T. Baker, director, reported today. Nearly 2,000,000 more "coppers" were coined in 1918 than the year before, 326,614,624 compared with 243,169,735.

The government's profit on mint operations for the year was $20,000,000, according to Baker. He reported coin: 45,330,314 nickels, 68,654,800 dimes, 32,092,000 quarters, 20,760,940 half-dollars and 100,053 Illinois centennial half-dollars.

PERSIUS CITES GERMAN LIES ABOUT 'SUBS'

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 3.—At the time when the German marine staff was assuring the German people that their submarines were rapidly clearing the seas of all ships, commanders of the undersea craft were not only losing their own craft but were unable to sink many vessels because they were too well guarded, says Captain Persius in an article in the Berliner Tageblatt on the failure of the submarine warfare in 1918, according to a wireless dispatch from Berne received today by the French high commission.

Captain Persius says that Germany lost five submarines in 1915, twenty-five in 1917, while sixty-six were sailing vessel were sunk."

Charm of Music Good for Army Morale, Says Officer

Music does much to keep up the morale of the troops, according to Lieutenant Philip Clapp, formerly professor of music at Dartmouth College, who has just returned from overseas where he has been connected with the 72d Artillery.

"Most of my time was spent in places around the Marne, where daily musical recitations entertained the troops," he said.

"Anyone who has seen the soldiers gather by the hundreds at musical performances, cannot help but feel that the morale of the army is, in a large degree, due to bands and musical entertainments."

lost during January of last year.

The dispatch says that at the beginning of 1918 a report which has not been published contained the following passage:

"Nearly all steamers are officially presented. Among ninety-eight ships met at sea only two steamers and a sailing vessel were sunk."

SINN FEIN ASKS RELEASE OF PRISONERS

By International News Service.

Dublin, Jan. 3.—The Sinn Feiners are making preparations for great demonstrations throughout the south of Ireland on Sunday, when they will demand the release of 6,000 political prisoners who were arrested under the "Dora" (war restriction) law.

Lord French, commander of the troops in Ireland, is understood to be opposed to the release of the Sinn Fein prisoners. A number of the Sinn Feiners who were elected to Parliament in the recent election are in prison.

French Cross for Joyce Kilmer, Killed in War

By International News Service.

Washington, Jan. 2.—Sergeant Joyce Kilmer, late noted poet and one of the first American men of letters to be killed in the war has been awarded posthumously the French war cross with an accompanying citation at the order of the French army, said a dispatch from France to the French High Commissioners today.

FIRE LOSS OF $15,000 AT NEWPORT NAVY BARRACKS

Newport, R. I., Jan. 3.—Fire at the Second Naval District Receiving Barracks destroyed one of the shacks and about 2,000 new mattresses and hammocks, causing a loss of approximately $15,000. The fire was due to a short circuit of electric wires.

SUFFRAGISTS GUARDING WHITE HOUSE WATCHFIRE

Washington, Jan. 3.—The National Woman's party's watchfire of "freedom" is still burning before the White House, guarded on either side by women sentinels. The steady rain has not been able to drive the women from their pledge to keep the fire burning until the Senate should pass the suffrage amendment than were the crowds and the police. The fire now burns in an iron brazier spluttering feebly through the rain.

Filene's

A store where you get what you pay for and pay only for what you get.

Shop with a SHOPPING CARD in order to have all your purchases delivered for a single charge like one purchase.

Some customers have misunderstood our new policy of charging for charge accounts. They have thought we charged each month whether they purchased or not. This is not so. The charge appears on the bill each month when the account is used. For other months there is no charge, because there is no expense to us.

Here are women's new, lovely Georgette blouses at $4, one instance out of many of Filene better values

$4

Women's new high neck white batiste blouses with frilled pleats and cuffs, $3. They are pink or white Georgette crepe, with the prettiest tightly pleated collar-frill, outlined with turquoise blue.

Women's new crepe de Chine blouses with the value concentrated in quality rather than trimming, $4.

Filene's—mail orders filled—fifth floor

Women's Grecian beaded dresses at $25

Luminous black beads in a Grecian key design distend away on the softly draped Georgette blouse and its collar. Picture shows the pretty draped tunic skirt—but how can it show the goodness of the taffeta and Georgette? In navy blue.

$14

Women's new taffeta dresses at $14 show beading and embroidery

Double gathered peplum gives the skirt a very youthful line. The blouse is softly draped and has the ever-becoming round neck. Sizes 34 to 40.

Sixth Floor

Filene's—mail orders filled—sixth floor

Girls' heavy warm coats, lined all through, $7.50 and $10

For girls of 6 and 8 there are very warm little coats of heavy cheviots or burella cloths, made in favorite belted and pocketed syles, lined from top to bottom, $7.50

For older sisters from 12 to 14 there are beautiful wide wale corduroys, trimmed with pretty smoked pearl buttons, as well as smart cheviot coats, as sketched, $10.

All have storm-proof collars. In navy blue, green or brown.

Filene's—mail orders filled —fourth floor

$7.50 $10

Larger women's braided serge dresses, $15

A model very successful on stout figures owing to its sharply pointed tunic skirt. Rows of flat silk braid outline the round neck, sleeves and tunic.

Sixth Floor.

Women's new wool jersey dresses show much embroidery

One at $39.75 shows the very new long vest that Paris is making such a cry about. Those at $29.75 have long slim skirts under pointed tunics. The jersey is wonderfully good. Blues, beige, reindeer, rookie and navy.

Sixth Floor

Women's highly mercerized stockings, Crest Brand, 55c

Seamless but shaped to fit well.

Made from long staple two-thread cotton yarns with highly mercerized finish. They have very elastic, double garter tops, reinforced high spliced heels, double soles and toes, making them as serviceable as can be. Black, white or tan.

Filene's—mail orders filled—street floor

Do you wish to send something to a soldier in France? Orders can be left at the Filene Overseas Soldier Shopping desk on street floor balcony, for almost anything except candy and American cigarettes, to be filled in Selfridges, London.

PREDICTS STATE WILL OPERATE CAR LINES

Former Mayor of Taunton Makes Declaration at Bay State Railway Hearing

"If the Bay State Railway cannot be run by private individuals or corporations, the State ought to take it over. I think in a short while it will work out to that end. The street railway is the poor man's vehicle," said former Mayor John B. Tracey of Taunton today in the continued hearing of the Bay State Street Railway, over the discontinuance of certain of its lines. The hearing is before Judge Morton in the United States District Court.

Mayors and city solicitors of the cities that will be affected by a discontinuance of certain lines attended the hearing.

Lincoln Bryant of Milton, representing that town, advocated the selling of the line and the placing of the property in the hands of people who can run it.

"The Bay State road is asking the court for permission to discontinue lines on evidence which they know is insufficient to take before the Public Service Commission," he said.

DUFFY LEWIS IS OUT OF THE NAVY

San Francisco, Cal., Jan. 2—Duffy Lewis, formerly left fielder of the Red Sox, now with the Yankees, has been relieved from active service in the United States navy. He was a chief yeoman.

BOY HELD IN $2,000 AS ROXBURY STORE ROBBER

Richard J. Mackie, seventeen years old, of Kent street, Roxbury, was held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury by Judge Hayden in Roxbury Court today, on a charge of breaking and entering the shoe store of Benjamin Ludwig, No. 2,241 Washington street, and larceny of twelve pairs of rubbers.

Resinol

will heal that disfiguring rash so you can wear this dress

"I know, because I have used it, and found that it stopped the smarting and itching when I made the first application, and in a short time the eruption was gone. I used Resinol Soap with it and it quickened the action of Resinol Ointment. You can get both from your druggist."

THE MEN IN CLASS A1

A sound, healthy man is never a back number. A man can be as vigorous and able at seventy as at twenty. Condition, not years, puts you in the discard. A system weakened by overwork and careless living brings old age prematurely. The bodily functions are impaired and unpleasant symptoms appear. The weak spot is generally the kidneys. Keep them clean and in proper working condition and you will generally find yourself in Class A. Take GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules, periodically and your system will always be in working order. Your spirits will be enlivened, your muscles supple, your mind active, and your body capable of hard work.

Don't wait until you have been rejected. Commence to be a fine-class man now. Go to your druggist, if not, get a trial box of GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. They are made of the pure, original, imported Haarlem Oil—the kind your great-grandfather used. Two capsules each day will keep you toned up and feeling fine. Money refunded if they do not help you. Number 1, or 2, for the imported GOLD MEDAL Brand. In three sizes, sealed packages.—Advertisement.

Get Rid of That Persistent Cough

If you are subject to weak lungs, heed the cough as a warning. ECKMAN'S ALTERATIVE may aid you in stopping the cough. In addition, it is a valuable tonic and health-builder in such cases. Twenty years' successful use.

Every Woman Needs IRON at Times

If women would only take Nuxated Iron when they feel weak, run-down, tired out—when they are pale, nervous and haggard—there are thousands who might readily build up their red corpuscles, become rosy-cheeked, strong and healthy and be much more attractive in every way. When the iron goes from the blood of women, the healthy glow of youth leaves their skin and their charm and vivacity departs. A two weeks course of Nuxated Iron works wonders in many cases. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. At all good druggists.

"THERE'S A REASON"

REPLIES BY SOLDIERS' FRIEND

Readers of the Boston American are following with daily growing interest the answers of the Soldiers' Friend to queries of every nature relative to men in the service and their affairs.

The American will publish information of especial interest to soldiers and sailors, their families and their sweethearts. Questions concerning service men and their families will be answered promptly. Advice on claims, discharges, etc., will be given, as will information concerning hotels and places of amusement.

All persons desiring to entertain soldiers or sailors in hotels, restaurants or private homes may invite them through the Boston American, stating the number of guests desired.

Address all communications to the Soldiers' Friend, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

Can you tell me where my son is, who is in Company I, 53d Pioneer Infantry, and to what division they are assigned? Also, have they been assigned to return home soon?

ANXIOUS FATHER AND SISTER.

The regiment is not attached to a division, nor has it been designated to return. I will try to ascertain its present location for you.

Can you tell me the location of the 101st Ammunition Train, Company E, and how soon will it be home?

ANXIOUS SISTER, N. L.

In the 26th (New England) Division, at Montigny-le-Roi. It has not been assigned to come home.

I have four sons in the service, and will you tell me whether any of these companies are coming home soon, and where are they located?

FALL RIVER MOTHER.

Company D, 116th Infantry, is in the 29th Division, which has not yet been assigned to return. Battery F, 46th Regiment, C. A. C., has been ordered to return home. Company G, 56th Infantry, in the 7th Division, has not been assigned for convoy home. It is on the lines of communication of the Army of Occupation.

MARY L. S.—The supply company of the 55th Regiment, C. A. C., is with its regiment, which is at Brest, France, according to our latest advices. The 55th has not yet been assigned for convoy home, but its presence at the seaport of Brest would seem to indicate that it soon will be.

A SOLDIER'S WIFE—The 41st Division is [illegible] in France, and the 165th Infantry has not been assigned for early convoy.

My brother is in Battery A, 15th Field Artillery, and we have not heard from him but once. We would like to know where he is, and when his battery is coming home. HIS SISTER.

The 15th Field Artillery is in the 2d Division, which is part of the Army of Occupation. The division has not been assigned for return, and probably will not be until the treaty of peace is signed. If you have reason to believe that your brother has been injured or transferred, write to the Adjutant-General, War Department, Washington, D. C., for his present address.

SOLDIER'S FRIEND—Headquarters Company, 80th Field Artillery, is in the 7th Division of Regulars, and is not assigned for early return.

M. E. M.—The Air Production Center No. 2 is located at Gievres. It has not been assigned to return in toto.

AN ANXIOUS MOTHER—The 4th Anti-aircraft Machine Gun Battalion has not yet been designated to return. A number of other units of that service have been, however, and the 4th may be soon. The 342d Field Artillery is in the 90th Division, last reported at Marville. The regiment is not in convoy.

E. F. T.—Bakery Company No. 10, Q. M. C., stationed at Issur-Tille, has not been assigned to return. It may not come for some time, for it is on the lines of communication of the Army of Occupation, and is probably connected with their supply.

SOLDIER'S SWEETHEART—The 31st Aero Squadron has not been specifically designated for convoy yet. It is not connected with a division.

Will you please tell me when a person is coming home who is attached to the office of the headquarters detachment, 17th Machine Gun Battalion, 6th Division? ANXIOUS MOTHER.

No unit of the 6th Division (Regulars) has as yet been assigned to convoy home.

A BOY'S MOTHER, ATTLEBORO—The 139th Aero Squadron has not as yet been assigned to return home. An "observation group" is one detailed to observe enemy positions, locate artillery, report on troop movements, etc., but not to fight. The combat and pursuit groups do the air fighting.

Could you tell me the location of a private in the 38th Brigade, 55th Regiment, Battery E, C. A. C.

A LOVING GRANDMA, CAMBRIDGE.

At Brest, France, if he is with his battery.

MRS. A. W. C., Roxbury—The 1st Air Service Mechanics' Regiment has not yet been designated to return home. A Red Cross man in France may return home as soon as the Red Cross organization feels that it can spare his services.

RESTAURANT IS OPENED AT FORE RIVER PLANT

The first meal in the new government restaurant, constructed at Quincy Point for Fore River ship workers in connection with the twenty-one dormitories just completed there, was served, when thirty-six government, Fore River and Quincy officials were banqueted. Harvey W. Craw, manager of the project, was toastmaster. The speakers were: Mayor Whiton of Quincy, General Manager A. Wiley Wakeman of the Fore River plant and Judge Riley of Malden.

"Careful Mothers O'er the Land, Always Keep Cascarets at Hand"

Children think them dandy,
They are Mild Cathartic Candy.
Contain nothing to harm,
Work like a charm. "Ten Cents"

Instead of nasty, harsh pills, salts, castor oil or dangerous calomel, why don't you keep Cascarets handy for the children? Cascarets can always be depended upon when a good liver and bowel cleansing is necessary—they move the bile and constipation poison from the bowels without griping and sweeten the child's little stomach. Any youngster will gladly eat a candy Cascaret at night and will wake up feeling fine. Complete directions on each 10 cent box.

Our preparations to take care of our customers during the present wool scarcity were so extensive —were made on such a big scale—that we have more than enough of the finest merchandise on hand to last until equally good goods can be had at equal prices. That's the sole and simple reason for holding this

Mark-Down Sale

Which includes our entire stock of Kuppenheimer and other good makes of clothing (black and blue suits and heavy ulsters only excepted) as well as Furnishings, Hats, Shoes and Boys' Clothes.

You won't find another stock to compare with ours in quality, anywhere—full of Hockanums, Worumbos, Carr's Meltons and other such fine fabrics that for a long time now have been unobtainable at any price in the open market.

And even though "sales" of one kind or another are now rampant, you won't find any other prices, where merchandise of equal quality and desirability is involved, that are as low as our regular prices have been all through the season.

And you won't find any other such clothing values as we now offer, because our reductions—while not sensational in themselves — are bona-fide mark-downs from our low regular prices applying to the finest merchandise in existence.

HUSTON BACK AND BALLDOM IS READY TO HONOR HIM

By NICK FLATLEY.

LIEUTENANT-COLONEL T. L. HUSTON, back in this country after sixteen months overseas service with the Fifteenth Engineers, steps into the sport picture at a moment when he cannot but be a big figure. The genial soldier-magnate, part owner of the New York Yankees, was one of the first of baseball's ranks to enlist. He was the first to send back word that the soldiers over there would have a whole lot to do with the reforming and renewal of baseball.

His first statement on landing was to the effect that baseball, without further delay, should do something big for the players who were wounded in the war. He doesn't say a word about retiring from the game, as has been intimated. He has become a national figure in baseball and his word will have great weight with the national army of fans.

The "Colo" as he was known before splendid service earned him promotion, was a pioneer in the campaign for a new one-man National Commission, or a new Commission anyhow. His views in that matter are doubtless unchanged, though the general opinion that the high lords of baseball seem to have veered back to old ways, now that baseball in the Spring is a certainty.

Matter of fact, Lieutenant-Colonel Huston was widely mentioned as the man who might make an ideal National Commission head. Had any definite idea been had as to when he would get back to this country, there's not a doubt that his friends would have started a Huston campaign, which in all probability would have swept on to success from its very popularity.

Huston at Helm Would Help Game.

NOW that Lieutenant-Colonel Huston is back, he will very likely loom up as one of the real leaders in baseball, which he likes for itself and will always like, no matter how busy he may be otherwise. To our way of thinking, getting the returned soldier on the high governing board of the pastime, would be a stroke of genius.

It would assure fans in general that the magnates were really serious in their efforts to better conditions up above. It would end it would give the players a friend at the throne that they would have the utmost confidence in.

Further, it would put at the guiding wheel an individual who doesn't care the least little bit about the petty politics of baseball and who wouldn't stand for the public linen laundering that has become the habit with the backers of the sport.

It may be that Lieutenant-Colonel Huston might be unwilling to take over a job filled with so much sure trouble, but, the proper method being used, his objections certainly could be overruled to the extent of having him accept office at least until things were ironed out.

Four Bouts at Armory Show Next Week.

GETTING back to boxing, the Armory Club has announced its full card for next Wednesday's Grand Opera House performance. Besides the main bout, Clay Turner and Kid Norfolk, arranged some time back, there are preliminary six-rounders and an eight-round affair, will be on the program.

The main bouters, who gave an interesting exhibition when last they performed here, announce via the usual channels that this will be the fight of their respective young lives. Apart from that, it frames up as a really even match between two of the best big men in the game today.

The rest of the card is as follows: Young Andrews of New Bedford and Young Sharkey of the same place, six rounds; Johnny Mario of East Boston and Willie Roberts of Naval Radio School, six rounds; Sam Bell and Joe Flynn, both of Boston, eight rounds.

There will be no show at the Commercial Club this evening, but the regular meeting is being arranged for next week.

Amateurs Get Busy at Brockton Tonight.

THE simon pures, the boys who box for watches, hold forth this evening at the St. Patrick's T. A. rooms in Brockton. Some of the best of the present crop of youngsters in the State have entered for the tournament. Bouts will be held in the 108, 115 and 125-pound classes.

One of our former amateur champions, who is now Henry Volger of New York, is cutting a big swath in fistic circles over that way, and incidentally helping to boom Boston as a development centre for some great youngsters within the last couple of years. Henry has licked a lot of good one and is now preparing for a quarrel with Al Shubert in Baltimore, January 10.

Al is no youngster, but he's as tough as ever and can still give a good account of himself against anybody. The pair will go for twelve rounds.

Duffy Doesn't Believe Catchers Best Pilots.

HUGHIE DUFFY, who will guide the destinies of Harvard baseball this coming Spring, if he isn't persuaded into managing somewhere in the International League, doesn't hold with the usual view that catchers make the best managers.

"A lot of them," he declares, "were backstops, but that doesn't prove a thing. That's merely the accident of it. As many good directors come from the infield or the outfield as from back of the bat. Take Mathewson. In the long run you've got to admit he's as successful as ever any manager was. He wasn't a catcher. Neither was Jennings, nor Fred Clarke, nor a dozen others that might be named, all good ones.

"It just happens now that the backstop managers are in the majority, but that doesn't prove a thing. I will predict, too, that Kid Gleason will be a good manager. He knows the game, and knows men. And that's the winning combination. When I was managing, Gleason was with me and I've never met anyone who was more help developing players."

Hugh has been busy lately coaching John Dooley, the w. k. Winter Leaguer, who is breaking into business on his own hook.

NO BIG CHANGES EXPECTED BY HERRMANN

By JACK VEIOCK.

New York, Jan. 3.—There will be no radical changes in the conduct of organized baseball in the governmental or playing departments of the game.

This is the gist of an opinion given to the International News Service by Chairman August Herrmann of the National Commission, in reply to a query regarding the outlook for baseball's somebody.

In a communication to the writer Herrmann refused to discuss the subject of readjustments in detail in advance of the meeting of the National Commission, in Cincinnati next Monday, and the joint meeting of the majors here, January 16.

He intimates, however, that although some changes may be brought about, the structure of the government of the game and the methods of conducting the pennant races will be practically the same as in past years.

"I am decidedly optimistic on the outlook for organized baseball in 1919," declares Herrmann. "There has been no decrease in interest or love for the national pastime and I am confident this will be demonstrated in the opening games of both major leagues.

"There will not be any radical changes in the conduct of organized baseball, either in the governing or playing departments of the game. This, however, cannot be determined until the conference between the major leagues this month, and the re-organization of the Commission.

"My experience as chairman of the Commission and president of the Cincinnati club convinces me that the fundamental principles of the National Agreement cannot be changed in any of their essentials without serious menace to the prosperity of the game. I do not care to discuss this matter in detail at this time."

Herrmann's reference to "the reorganization of the Commission" indicates he expects to see a change in the personnel of the central body. He apparently believes, however, that the Commission, to be successful, must continue with three members.

BATTERY WHARF FIVE TO PLAY FITCHBURG

The Battery Wharf Unit will open its season with the Fitchburg Y. M. C. A. team in Fitchburg tomorrow night.

The local team is composed of former high school players and is captained by "Allie" Dutton, formerly of Cushing Academy.

The Battery boys are anxious to meet any of the teams in and around Boston and vicinity and have several open dates that can be filled by writing to Ensign A. H. Tomfohrde, manager, Battery Wharf, City.

Track and Field Fans Now Have Their Say in Prize Contest

KNOW any funny stories relating to track or field sport? Everybody has seen something humorous happen at the various outdoor meetings.

The funniest ones will get the tellers the prizes in the American feature story contest.

There are two prizes each week—$10 for the funniest story and $5 for the next funniest. Make them brief—not more than 200 words—and mail them to the Feature Sport Editor, American.

These Snappy Stories Prove Many Funny Things Happen on Track

The field and track followers seem to be as much interested in the American's prize contest, judging by the way the replies are pouring in, as the followers of the other brands of sports. Their stories make interesting reading and recall many a sparkling old race. Read these and then send in yours:

JAMES A. MARTIN, Elevated Railway, Sullivan Square:

At the B. A. A. Marathon three or four years ago there was a youngster who received a great ovation from the crowds.

It seemed that he'd jump in an automobile and ride a while and then jump out and come down the line at top speed. The crowd, not knowing he was "fudging," would cheer madly as he went by the other pluggers.

After running a short distance at a good clip, he'd slide back into the auto and have another ride. This continued over the greater part of the route.

Coming down Beacon street he received a tremendous cheer, as he appeared "fresh" after covering almost the entire distance. As he only did it for a lark, those in the know had a great laugh.

HANS S. JOHNSON, No. 28 Orleans street, East Boston.

Some pupils were practicing track running when the coach, wishing to find the fastest runners, arranged a race.

One pupil, who was new to track racing, was passed twice by the others, and right at the finish was almost lapped again.

Although he was nearly four laps behind he thought he was the winner and, wiping the perspiration off his brow, said:

"I never thought I was such a fine runner."

BEN LEARY, No. 486 Main street Charlestown:

It was at a church picnic at one of the nearby groves a few years ago and there was a greased pig race on the program. There were quite a few among the chasers, some, of course, being togged out in their best clothes.

As soon as the pig was getting hard pressed he beat it for the lake, with the gang in hot pursuit. When they got to the edge, all but one stopped.

He waded in up to his armpits after the "porker," which, of course, left a greasy streak in the water behind him.

It was a scream to see that fellow when he came out of the lake all spattered with grease.

As none of the girls would dance with him the rest of the day, he made a vow, "Never again, no pig race for me."

OWEN S. THOMPSON, Fore River, Quincy.

This didn't happen at a sanctioned meet, but as you ask for stories of running races, here goes: I was hunting down Maine at one time. A party of us were standing by an old shed, when we saw a man coming toward us on the dead run followed closely by a bear. Going past us, we hollered:

"Hurry up, Bill; hurry up, he's pretty close."

The man hollered back: "You don't think I'm selling this race, do you?"

F. L. SCANLON, No. 317 Merrimac street, Lowell.

At the finish of a long distance race in which our champion finished second, we were in the dressing room talking about the event.

"If you had only used a little faster head work," said one, "you might have won."

"Yes, and if I had used a little faster footwork I would have won," replied our champion.

ST. MARY'S LINE UP AGAINST ALL-PROS.

Two of the fastest basketball teams in the State line up tonight when the All-Professional Five of Boston faces the St. Mary's C. A. at St. Mary's gymnasium building, Prospect street, Cambridge. The St. Mary's have yet to be defeated this season, their latest victim being the Five A. C. of East Boston. Play starts promptly at 8.15.

MAJOR BRANCH RICKEY BACK FROM WAR ZONE

New York, Jan. 3.—Major Branch Rickey, president of the St. Louis (National League) baseball club, is back from France. He was in the chemical warfare service abroad.

Rickey has not yet been appointed manager to succeed Jack Hendricks, but that step will be taken in due time, it is pretty well understood.

SEVEN TOSSERS READY FOR HARVARD PRACTICE

Harvard's first flock of baseball candidates has signed up. The talent embraces McLeod, Gross and Evans, who shared the varsity captaincy last Spring; Johnson, tall varsity pitcher, and Jimmy King, Tom Meehan and Bob Blair of the 1921 nine. Ned Diggelow is expected to try for an outfield berth.

KILONIS TAKES RUGGED MATCH FROM LUDECKER

John Kilonis encountered a rough customer in Martin Ludecker in the wind-up event on the wrestling card at the Grand Opera House, and while the Greek won the odd fall, he had his hands full. Ludecker started by flopping Kilonis in 23:09, but he wore himself out and the next two falls went to the Greek in 41:00 and 10:30, respectively.

MILLROSE A. A. GAMES SET FOR MARCH 12 OR 13

New York, Jan. 3.—The date for the Millrose A. A. games is still undecided. John J. Mcowan, chairman of the athletic committee, announces that the meet will be held either March 12 or 13.

PURE BLOOD

From the blood all the solid tissues take their food and oxygen. Unless the blood is pure, in a healthy condition it affects the entire body. If you have dry, rough skin, pimples, boils, or other blood troubles, or if the joints become swollen and stiff, if you have catarrh and feel stuffed up; if you cannot eat right, think right or work right, don't delay, get Brown's Blood Treatment, $2 a bottle; lasts about a month. This remedy is expressly intended to drive out of the system all impurities and at the same time build up the red corpuscles and make pure, rich, healthy blood. J.H. BROWN CO., 833 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa. Sold at Liggett's.

BASEBALL HEADS AT WORK ON '19 SCHEDULES

French Lick Springs, Ind., Jan. 3.—Presidents B. B. Johnson and John A. Heydler of the two major baseball leagues, and President Barney Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh club, are busy here today getting up the 1919 schedules.

They will submit them for approval to the joint major league meeting in New York, January 16.

The National League, Heydler said, agreed almost unanimously by mail vote to a 140-game schedule, every club but Chicago sending in "ayes." The Chicago management declined to vote.

"The consensus seems to be we ought to have a shorter schedule," states Heydler, "because of the delay of the soldiers returning from France. Starting the season April 23 makes it about right for all the clubs. I do not expect any opposition, as the National has taken its stand, and I understand the American has done likewise."

Heydler will be in Cincinnati next Monday for the annual meeting of the National Commission. He will then go to St. Louis to discuss the affairs of the Cardinals.

LEO HUGHES TURNS OUT FOR B. C. HOCKEY TEAM

Leo Hughes, Newton High's old hockey star, is the latest addition to Boston College's crack squad. He played on last season's Arena team, and Maroon and Old Gold rooters are confident he will prove a slashing fine addition to Captain Falvey's machine.

The seven has a wealth of tip-top talent. In addition to Falvey and Hughes, Phil Corrigan, Joe Sullivan, Jim Fitzpatrick, Frank Morrissey and Ben Healy, who comes up from Boston College High, are prominent members of the squad.

Manager Herbette is busy arranging the schedule. It is planned to go to Montreal for two games with the McGill University, while Harvard will be met, providing the Crimson has a seven this Winter.

Freedom Right of Workers

Samuel Gompers, President American Federation of Labor

Predicts Industrial Prosperity if Rights of Workers Are Recognized by Capital. A Splendid Article Next Sunday in the

BOSTON SUNDAY ADVERTISER AND AMERICAN

Mr. Gompers brings out many vital facts in his article—facts which are of import to labor, both organized and unorganized and to capital and employers.

He speaks with justifiable pride of the mighty and majestic role labor played in winning the great war—how it kept its trust with democracy and the government.

"Now that our aim has been accomplished—now that freedom has come to us—it must be ours to keep," he says.

What organized labor has done for unorganized labor, the future of employers and employees—dozens of important and timely points are brought out in this article.

INCLUDE BOSTON IN EXPORTS EMBARGO

All Overseas Shipments, Save Grain, Suspended at Three Biggest Ports

A ten days' embargo on all exports and other overseas shipments from Boston, New York and Philadelphia, placed by the railroad administration, went into effect today dating from midnight. Although advices from New York stated that the embargo was due to labor troubles and congestion, freight agents of the New England railways today denied that there are any labor difficulties in connection with the operation of Boston lines.

They admitted that a temporary embargo on foreign freight had gone into effect and would probably last for a few days.

Congestion of cars loaded with export freight on New England lines was assigned by local agents as the cause. The few days' suspension of exports will allow officials to clean up this congestion, they stated, adding that the embargo is not expected to last later than the first of next week. It does not prohibit the shipment of grain from Boston.

Representatives of the army and navy the food and railroad administrations met today in New York to discuss the situation.

Announcement of Changes

Beginning Saturday, January 4, 1919, in order to permit the running of two-minute train service instead of three-minute as at present in the Washington Street Tunnel and better accommodate the large majority of our patrons from the north and south the service between Sullivan Square and Dudley Street via Atlantic Avenue will be discontinued.

Atlantic Avenue will be served by a four-minute line of trains between North and South Stations in place of the present six-minute line.

Beach Street Station will be closed.

Passengers from points north wishing to reach Atlantic Avenue may transfer at North Station to Atlantic Avenue trains; at Milk Station to East Boston Tunnel cars; or at Winter Station to Dorchester Tunnel trains changing at South Station Under for Rowes Wharf and Atlantic Avenue.

Passengers from points south may transfer at Summer Station to Dorchester Tunnel trains changing at South Station Under for Rowes Wharf and Atlantic Avenue; at State Station to East Boston Tunnel cars; or at North Station to Atlantic Avenue trains.

Alternate southbound Washington Street Tunnel service will be run to Forest Hills and passengers for points on the elevated south of Dudley Street will find it to their advantage to wait for Forest Hills trains and thereby avoid changing at Dudley Street.

Twenty Thousand Minors Maimed in Massachusetts Industries Last Year

Such Conditions as This Produce Bolshevism

Edwin F. Wallace, counsel for the State Board of Labor and Industries, tells us that Massachusetts industries last year has maimed 20,000 Massachusetts minors!

That statement ought to make intelligent and thoughful and right-minded people stop to think about social and economic conditions which make such a thing possible.

Mr. Wallace says that this terrible and disgraceful condition is due chiefly to the violation of law by the employers of labor, to the ignorance of school superintendents and teachers who do not know what kind of work is prohibited by law for children to do, and to the undue leniency of the courts in punishing employers who violate the law concerning the employment of minors in dangerous work.

We presume that most of the manufacturers who have violated this law are members of the vicious and dangerous organization known as the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, which unsuccessfully fought the Initiative and Referendum, but which succeeded, through the Council and Governor McCall's weakness, in preventing Professor Ripley, an independent and courageous citizen, from going upon the Minimum Wage Board.

This is the kind of an association and these are the kind of results from its activities which does more to bring Bolshevism and I. W. W. ism to Massachusetts and America than all the I. W. W.'s could possibly do in a hundred years. No intelligent person doubts that the Bolsheviks would at least take care of the great majority of the people, even if they oppressed and sacrificed the possessing minority. We in America don't believe that a majority should selfishly sacrifice a minority. But if we must chose between a Government by Bolsheviki and a Government by the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, we think that most intelligent men would prefer a Government by Bolsheviki.

If it is true that part of the responsibility for the maiming of 20,000 children in Massachusetts this last year lies at the door of the courts, then our judges bear a heavy responsibility. A manufacturer who employs children on dangerous work, knowingly or carelessly, is a malefactor who ought not to be spared. If the courts continue to impose light sentences, they could easily become a regular part of the cost of production and be shifted off upon the consumer as usual, while exercising no restraining influence upon the brutality and the anti-social instincts of the employer class.

When these manufacturers and judges, if the judges are really at fault, meet in their clubs and shake their heads in reprehension of Bolshevism, let them remember that Bolshevism is the result of such conditions as are represented by the maiming of 20,000 children in Massachusetts in one year through carelessness, disobedience of law and its going unwhipped of justice.

Let Us Be Fair to All Nations, But Also Be Prepared

Senator Lodge, the Republican Senate leader, says that America does not need as great a navy as Great Britain has.

In the course of his speech Mr. Lodge took his place, as usual, beside the reactionary element of the Republican party IN FAVOR OF OUR TAKING A SUBORDINATE POSITION TO GREAT BRITAIN IN WORLD AFFAIRS, which is really what the advocacy of permitting Great Britain to control the seas means—an un-American attitude, which is part of a great foreign propaganda being scandalously conducted here.

In his defence of his Little-Americanism Mr. Lodge concedes that we do need a large fleet in the Pacific Ocean. This is very interesting, because it is a concession which he would not make if he did not appreciate that this truth is so plain that to deny it or overlook it would weaken his general argument in favor of permitting Great Britain to control the seas.

Now, if we need a great navy in the Pacific, as an assurance, against what power do we need it? Surely not Australia or New Zealand or Canada. We are too much like these little provinces ever to quarrel with them, and they are too small to be dangerous. If they were dangerous it would be on account of Great Britain's naval power, and, of course, Mr. Lodge cannot mean that there is any danger from Great Britain's navy when he is advocating the policy of permitting Great Britain to have a greater navy than we have. It cannot be China that he fears, and it cannot be any South American State or Mexico that he fears, for none of these nations have a considerable navy or are likely to have one for years to come.

Obviously he means that we should have a great navy on the Pacific as an assurance against danger from Japan, Great Britain's ally.

We agree with Mr. Lodge's judgment that to have denied this fact would have left a fatal fault in his argument. For whether in an American State or in a British province, whether on the Pacific Slope of our country or in Canada, Australia or New Zealand, the people understand the possibility of the Japanese danger. They understand it just as all intelligent people understand that while human nature remains what it is, and so long as commercial rivalries remain rivalries and not generous emulations, conflicts of commercial interests or the overflow pressure of one race upon another race will always create a dangerous tendency to war.

This newspaper has observed and admired Japan in its advance to a progressive, aggressive world power, but to the extent that we have admired Japan we have feared Japan and urged the American people to be on guard against Japan. We do not, like Senator Lodge, view Japan and the Asiatic situation with any special distrust. We merely do not believe that Japanese human nature is any better than European human nature, and we do know that a great conflict of commercial interests exists already and will inevitably increase between the United States, with its growing and expanding trade, and the great contending commercial nations of Europe and of Asia. If Senator Lodge is willing, for partisan reasons, to overlook the dangers of European rivalries and jealousies, we are glad at least that he is not willing to lose sight of the menace of Asiatic commercial competition and race prejudices.

For years before the war the Hearst newspapers have warned the American people not to trust the fundamental interests of the United States to the unselfishness or benevolence of any other nation. An attempt has been made by political opponents to brand this policy as pro-Germanism. It is nothing but the sincerest pro-Americanism.

Let us be fair to all nations and friendly to all nations, but let us be always PREPARED to protect our own interests when racial jealousies and commercial rivalries make other nations unfair and unfriendly to us.

And, despite Senator Lodge, this newspaper feels that complete preparedness for all emergencies should exist on the Atlantic as well as on the Pacific.

MR. WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST,
Chairman, Military Committee of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops,
Hall of Records, Chambers Street, New York City.

Dear Sir—I have received your invitation to serve upon the military committee to welcome the homecoming troops, and will be glad to accept and do everything I can to assist you in making this welcome to our victorious troops a success.

I have noted that there is an attempt being made to discredit you as a member of this committee, and, in my opinion, these attacks are not directed so much at you personally as they are at the progressive policies that your publications have stood for and advocated in behalf of the people.

In looking over the names of those who have refused to serve with you I find many of the people who have always opposed the industrial liberation of the working people—those who have either directly or indirectly been represented at legislative hearings protesting against the enactment of laws that were for the benefit of the men, women and children and would give them greater protection in their places of employment.

I feel sure that these attacks are not being made on you on account of your patriotism or loyalty; but because those selfish and protected interests have been affected through the adoption of progressive legislation urged by organized labor and advocated by your newspapers.

These people now fully realize, with the further enlightenment of the people as to their governmental responsibilities, that in the very near future their vested interests in public utilities, natural resources and monopoly of the necessities of life, the people will place them under the control and ownership of city, State and Federal governments.

Of course, these industrial pirates and financial freebooters who have profited so greatly by preying upon the working people now understand that they have their backs to the wall, and are making their last attempt to discredit and destroy those who are responsible for the enlightenment of the people by shedding the light of publicity upon their nefarious practices.

Through your papers you have, with farseeing vision, recognized the abuses of this private ownership and control of public utilities and the necessities of life and have advocated more rigid government regulation and ownership and control.

People are known by the enemies they make, and you have every reason to feel proud of yours. You have been an advocate of the humanitarian reforms that organized labor has been demanding for years, and with these reforms in effect, these so-called patriotic profiteers, who now so vigorously oppose you, understand that the people are awakening to their dangers and through the enactment of the laws you have advocated will protect themselves in the future.

Through your newspapers you have advocated a free press, free speech and war revenues to be derived from incomes, inheritance and excess profit taxes, the care of our soldiers and sailors, so that they would not have to worry about their future, the establishment of the widow's pension system, workmen's compensation, elimination of child labor, federal insurance for all the people, improvement of our educational standards, minimum wages for women and minors, government ownership of railroads, telegraph and telephone systems, federal control of coal mines, water power and other natural resources, the establishment of the eight-hour day and the Americanization of all foreigners, woman suffrage and many other matters of great benefit to humanity.

Naturally the advocacy of these necessary and humane measures has aroused the bitter antagonism of those who profit by these inhuman conditions, and in order to prevent further enlightenment of the people along these lines, they attack the persons responsible for them. So I say again, you should feel proud of the enemies you have made, and I am delighted with this opportunity to express to you my approval of the good work you have been doing in the past and consider it an honor to serve with you on this committee to welcome the homecoming troops.

Yours very truly,
JAMES P. HOLLAND,
President New York State Federation of Labor.

Paris finds it necessary to nail a German propaganda that the American army had to pay rent for trenches it occupied on the French front. A grotesque thought, even for "made in Berlin" propaganda. 1919 Philosophy

By William F. Kirk

WE ought to hope for many things throughout this jolly year,
And take whatever Fortune brings without a doubt or fear.
We ought to strive for wealth and fame—as much as we can win—
But keep on trying just the same when troubles hedge us in.
As onward this old planet swings
We ought to do a lot of things!

WE ought to cultivate the grin and frown away the blues,
We ought to smile when others win and sigh when others lose.
When all the boys come marching home ("come sailing" this should be—Boys cannot tramp across the foam or march across the sea).
We ought to give them soft replies—
We'd hate to treat 'em otherwise!

WE ought to tolerate our foes, no matter what they say,
And when they step upon our toes we ought to walk away.
To bring our near and dear ones bliss and know where we are at
We ought to do a lot of This and quite a lot of That.
And, just to bring our readers cheer,
We terminate this song right here
By wishing you a Glad New Year!

GIRLS WHOSE THOUGHTS OF SELF BRING MISERY

By Winifred Black

HERE'S another somebody suffering because she never can forget herself long enough to be happy.

If she goes to a party, she's worried because her dress is too long, or too short, or too pink, or too faded, or she thinks maybe her hair isn't done just right, or—oh, heavens! why didn't she get a pair of slippers like those the woman in white is wearing?

Oh, she isn't a belle—the men are nice enough to her, but they don't flock around her the way they do in stories or in the movies.

One at a time seems to be all she can have—and she can't always manage him.

Forget Yourself

Sometimes, just when she thinks she's really beginning to be fascinating, she looks up and there he is staring at somebody else, and she feels as if she could sink into the floor.

And then sometimes she laughs too loud and people look at her, or she doesn't laugh enough and they wonder about her.

And if she stays at home she's perfectly miserable, wondering why someone doesn't call up or come by and take her somewhere.

And if she meets a man on the street, she doesn't know whether she ought to stop and talk with him, or nod gayly across the crowd with a look of mutual understanding—that's the book girl again—or whether she ought to pass him with a cool stare of indifference.

She's terribly worried about doing just exactly what she ought to do, but precisely when she ought to do it, and how is she going to know, pray tell, and who will tell her, and will I be a lamp and a guidance to her feet?

No, my dear, I will not.

I don't know a thing about you. For all I know, you may be fifty or fifteen—oh, they grow both ages, the self-conscious sisters—and you may be dark or fair, plump or slender, clever or stupid. How am I to advise you what to wear and how to act to be fascinating or even interesting?

One thing is perfectly sure, dear sister, whoever you are and however you look, you think entirely too much about yourself.

You may care tragically how your hair is combed or what the length of your dress is, but no one else on earth cares the snap of desperately important affairs.

Learn to Like Others

Why should you think that the eyes of the whole world are riveted on you, and on you alone?

Who are you to play so important a part in the thoughts of every human being who walks the globe?

The man you meet in the street, for instance—he may seem to be looking at you, but all the time he's probably thinking about some other girl in some very different kind of a hat—a girl who thinks about him once in a while, and not all the time about herself.

A girl who laughs when she thinks a thing is funny, and not when she thinks she ought to laugh at it; a girl whose mind is taken up with what other people are saying, and not with how she is looking.

A girl who isn't the least bit like you, little sister.

Be human, be broad-minded, be generous.

Sympathize with other people, laugh with them and cry with them, and worry with them and rejoice with them, and the first thing you know you'll forget all about being self-conscious, and when you do that you will be well—yes, well is the word I meant to use, for self-consciousness is often a symptom of something which may turn into a very serious disease, if you don't in some way abate it.

Dangerous Henry Ford. Wise Dr. Eliot. Hohenzollerns' Punishment. Power Is Indestructible.

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1919.

Henry Ford raises his minimum pay for workmen from five to six dollars a day. Another good reason undoubtedly for rejoicing that he was kept out of the Senate. Such recklessness, when it comes to paying workers, is dangerous; it might breed Bolshevism, or might, at the least, "diminish the value of the dollar," and that would be too sad.

How different from Henry Ford of Detroit is Dr. Eliot of Harvard. Dr. Eliot sees "the path of ruin" in government effort to provide work for mechanics and discharged soldiers at good wages. Says the doctor:

"High wages are paid in the building trades, and there is no reason for them except the selfish demands of the men or their organizations."

The world as a whole applauds Dr. Eliot, who thinks it all right for him to make a good living by lending his name to books that other men wrote, and all wrong for the government to plan good wages for good mechanics and good soldiers.

And the State of Michigan rejects at the polls Henry Ford, who does more than a thousand men for American manufacturing industries, then gives his money back to the people in good value for buyers and good wages for workers.

It is a highly intelligent world.

William Hohenzollern, former Kaiser, is "very ill." Soon the news may be that the former Kaiser is dead.

Those that conduct guessing competitions on "What to do with the Kaiser," forget that the world can add little in the way of punishment to what he has done for himself.

Torture of the mind is the real torture. What happens to the body —hanging, guillotining and shooting —is nothing.

To awake from a dream of grandeur, to find yourself in exile, hunted, not wanted, in a foreign country, to change from the ruler of a great empire to the laughing stock of Europe, to look back into the faces of centuries of ancestors whom you revere as so many gods, and to be obliged to say to them, "I am the last of you and the final failure."

That is real torture. No ingenuity will devise anything worse. Henry the Second of England, defeated, suffered no such humiliation as falls upon the Kaiser now.

In his day kings were respectable even in defeat. But Henry, defeated, turned his face to the wall, said, "Shame on a beaten king," and died. If there is really anything of the king in William Hohenzollern, he will do the same.

"Stone walls do not a prison make," but humiliation is hell. Any executioner, English, French or German, that should end the Kaiser's life would do him the greatest favor.

Some peace delegates say, "We don't want a balance of power in Europe. We don't want any nation or group of nations strong enough to control the rest. We want heavenly peace, everybody good on his own account."

They forget that there MUST be a balance of power. If you don't arrange it and locate it, it will grow up while you are not looking and surprise you.

Germany and Austria surprised the rest of Europe. They thought they held the balance of power, and, as it turned out, they were not far wrong. It took a nation with millions of men and billions of money coming three thousand miles across the ocean, to push down the balance at the right end.

If France, England and Italy do not arrange a balance of power, they will put their heads in the sand, like the ostrich. And Woodrow Wilson knows that. You can't do away with power by saying, "I don't want it"—it will always be SOMEWHERE. And if it doesn't happen to be within your reach, you may find yourself uncomfortable.

That happened when this country started. The idea was to take power from the king and make sure that we didn't have another king here, by keeping the Central Government from possessing power through the wording of the constitution.

It was a perfect success, and, therefore, when removed from government found itself in the possession of intelligent men that ruled the country through railroads, politics, bosses, conventions, bought elections and other devices.

Matter and force, the scientists tell you, are indestructible. So is human power, and while it exists the wise man will want to have it at his end of the balance.
